The Adventurer's COMPLETE SCOTTSDALE Weekend

STORY AND PHOTOS BY ANNEMARIE KRUSE

Scottsdale may be famous for its spas, resorts and major events, but there is another side to this city that's only beginning to get the attention it deserves. Trails, peaks, parks, boulder piles and cycling routes — if you know where to look, there is no end to the options for outdoor adventure here. Join me for my take on an “adventurer’s complete weekend” without ever leaving Scottsdale.

FRIDAY, 5 P.M.
Trail Running

I keep trail runners and extra clothes in my car at all times so I can head straight from the office into the weekend. I lace up my shoes, fill my hydration pack (a must in AZ!), and head to Scottsdale’s McDowell Sonoran Preserve for a run around the Gateway Loop Trail (4.5 miles). Time it right to catch an iconic Arizona sunset. In the summer, head counterclockwise for better shade and northwest sunset views; in winter, the opposite applies. Summer runs are best timed in the early morning or as close to sunset as possible to avoid the intense afternoon heat. Carry a headlamp for safety should you get caught in diminishing light.

FRIDAY, 7 P.M.
Post-Run Drinks

Sweaty and starving is my attire of choice this Friday night, but I feel at home at the low-key Scottsdale Beer Company. The crowd is too preoccupied with the impressive tap list to notice the dirt on my running shoes. Pair a house-brewed pilsner, lager or pale ale with the white-bean hummus and roasted-beet and citrus salad. Fuel up, the weekend is just beginning!

SATURDAY, 5 A.M.
Rock Climbing

There is a surprising number of rock-climbing options around Scottsdale. Some of the most beloved spots can be found in the granitic terrain around Tom’s Thumb, but be ready for a hike/scramble to those spots. The approach is a great warm-up and the perfect opportunity to take in the views, like sunrise over the Four Peaks wilderness. Be sure to do your research or bring a friend who knows the area well to help you find the most suitable climbs. Even the great beginner’s routes get my muscles aching and my stomach growling. Time to head to breakfast.

Note: Climbing outdoors is not recommended during the hot desert summer. Instead, consider getting a bike ride in early, then hitting Arizona on the Rocks for an afternoon of indoor climbing.*

SATURDAY, 9 A.M. Farmers' Market Breakfast & Mimosas

Swing by the Old Town Farmers' Market in downtown Scottsdale and browse the local vendors for pastries and coffee. While here, I pick up fresh meats and produce for my week. Next, stop by ZuZu at the nearby Hotel Valley Ho for a mid-morning mimosa. Keep it light (ZuZu's stuffed French toast may look awfully tempting!); this afternoon will be your biggest challenge yet.

SATURDAY, 2 P.M. Road Biking

Scottsdale has the best roads in Arizona for cycling. Wide bike lanes and low rainfall make for a smooth surface and good riding conditions. One of my favorite road cycling routes (40 miles roundtrip) begins in downtown and then meanders through the ranch-style neighborhoods of Paradise Valley before reaching North Scottsdale's xeriscaped communities, which blend seamlessly into the surrounding mountains. This ride climbs steadily for the first half to a turnaround point at the Sunrise Trailhead at the McDowell Sonoran Preserve's edge. Here you have incredible views overlooking the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community all the way to the Superstition Mountains. Follow a similar route back and enjoy the casual downhill as you cruise along Indian Bend Wash to an afternoon pick-me-up at Cartel Coffee Lab. Total distance: 40 miles.

SATURDAY, 6 P.M. Western-Style Dinner With a Twist

It's been a long day, so indulge a little at Cowboy Ciao. The truffled mac 'n' cheese at this eclectic spot takes my mind off my ailing muscles. After a dinner fit for a queen (of the mountain) and a couple Ciao-Girl Martinis, I start to believe that a 7 a.m. date with my mountain bike is still a good idea.

SUNDAY, 7 A.M. Mountain Biking

This ride is on dirt, but it's no stomach-dropping Red Bull Rampage. At Brown's Ranch Trailhead on the northern part of the McDowell Sonoran Preserve, there are so many trails that it's easy to create a ride to suit any mountain biker's skill level. I begin with Whiskey Bottle Trail and head north around towering Granite Mountain, passing Balancing Rock and then finishing up via the fast and windy Maverick Trail. The lush landscape here is filled with a wide variety of plants and animals. Hikers, equestrians and cyclists share the trail system.

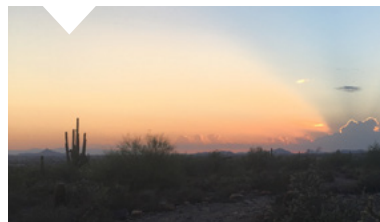

SUNDAY, 10 A.M. Recovery

There are many choices for relaxation in Scottsdale, but the Fireball Facial (yes, Fireball Cinnamon Whiskey) at Agave, the Arizona Spa at The Westin Kierland, is true to this weekend's adventure theme. Seeing as Fireball is the perfect accompaniment to any outdoor adventure, this is a must-try. Agave Spa offers a comprehensive menu of treatments both traditional and unique beyond the Fireball Facial.

SUNDAY, 5 P.M. Pre-Sunset Hike

Stretch those legs with an easy hike. The Quartz Trail is a steady climb through a verdant wash to a scenic viewpoint at the Taliesin Overlook (5.2 miles roundtrip). This is one of my favorite spots in all of Scottsdale. The landscape below hums a muted melody of desert sounds and city murmurs, and the sandy hues of buildings blend into the surrounding landscape as if they were always there.

SUNDAY AT 8 P.M. Dinner at FnB

After a long weekend of what I consider the best side of the city, there's no better way to top it off than a dinner at downtown's FnB, which specializes in locally sourced ingredients and seasonal fare. I gain extra satisfaction in knowing that my meal comes from the very terrain that I've spent so much time exploring over the last couple of days. 🌵

Ask Annemarie:

WHAT'S IN YOUR PACK?

- ① HAT & SUNSCREEN: I like a hat that both protects my face from the sun and tames my wild hair while I enjoy my post-hike brunch.
- ② FIRST-AID KIT: This is a must. In addition to the basics (bandages, antibiotic ointment), I carry a comb and tweezers in case of an unfortunate run-in with a cactus.
- ③ NUTRITION: Granola bar, electrolyte tablets and an energy-boosting Clif shot are indispensable. In the dry desert, it's extra important to take in vitamins and salts in addition to drinking water.
- ④ HEADLAMP: For those early-morning starts and just-after-sunset moments.
- ⑤ SWIMSUIT: Post-adventure cooldown or unexpected swimming hole, I'm always glad to have it.

Bonus: Lip balm, headphones, hand sanitizer . . . the little things make a difference.

A CHEFS' ROUND TABLE

Scottsdale's thriving food scene encompasses nearly 800 restaurants in a setting of glorious weather and Sonoran Desert vistas.

We can thank Arizona's culinary talent for the city's reputation as a dining mecca, including three of Scottsdale's most respected chefs: Charleen Badman of FnB, Beau MacMillan of Sanctuary on Camelback Mountain Resort & Spa and Mel Mecinas of Four Seasons Resort Scottsdale. All have been inducted into the Arizona Culinary Hall of Fame, cooked at the prestigious James Beard House in New York City and made their mark on Scottsdale's culinary map.

Badman, a three-time James Beard Award nominee for Best Chef of the Southwest, is lauded for her globally inspired menu and focus on Arizona-grown ingredients. As executive chef at Sanctuary's elements, MacMillan creates a modern menu with Asian accents. Food Network fans know him as an Iron Chef and judge on "Worst Cooks in America" and "Guy's Grocery Games." Mecinas oversees five dining venues at Four Seasons, including Talavera, an upscale steakhouse that draws on Mecinas' Mexican roots. Among his many accolades is 2016 Arizona Culinary Hall of Fame Chef of the Year.

I sat down with this illustrious group at FnB as they shared their thoughts on Scottsdale's culinary scene.

BARRUETA: HOW HAS SCOTTSDALE'S CULINARY SCENE EVOLVED OVER THE YEARS?

MacMillan: You see a lot more independent restaurants. When I got here, Scottsdale had its best restaurants inside hotels and resorts, because that was a big draw. But now you can eat out seven days a week and not hit every restaurant – resort or independent – in a year.

Badman: I like how you touched on the independents. We have more in Scottsdale than we ever have. One of the first people to venture beyond the hotel setting was Sam Fox, and Rancho Pinot used to be the only other independent restaurant. I was with [Rancho Pinot chef-owner] Chrysa Robertson when she moved from Phoenix, and it was a big deal to move to Scottsdale and not be a chain.

Mecinas: When I came here 10 and a half years ago, the Four Seasons had a classic steakhouse. I created my own way of identifying what the new American steakhouse is. That's what we do – create more diversity in food and how we prepare it.

IS THERE A SENSE OF COMMUNITY AMONG SCOTTSDALE CHEFS?

MacMillan: I love how this market not only supports innovators and people willing to take risks, but you see restaurants like Vincent's or El Chorro or Durant's that have been on the map for 60 years. That's a huge testament. When I came here, there was a fraternity of chefs working toward the common goal to bring light to an amazing location, a world-class destination for weather, for luxury. To have the community support each other like we have, that's fantastic. You don't find that in very many cities.

Mecinas: When you see the cohesiveness, that's very important. We continue to grow because we've all become friends. We're all in the same industry and, at the end of the day, how we support each other makes a huge difference.

Badman: We have so many chefs that are on the same page. We all have the same vision. It isn't just about us individually, it's about what we can do as a whole.

Mecinas: When one chef puts something unusual on the menu and then the next person creates their version of it, that's education for the guests.

MacMillan: And the guests trust you and grow with you. I'm not trying to be New York City or San Francisco. We're in the desert; this is our community. It's about hospitality. People can see a chef cooking and then see them in the dining room because we have the time to come out to meet and really value our customers. It makes it about family. It makes it about giving. It makes it about sharing.

HOW DO LOCAL FARMERS PLAY INTO THIS COMMUNITY?

Mecinas: You have to have a relationship with your farmer. When you hear a farmer

Charleen Badman

Beau MacMillan

Mel Mecinas

talking about his product – how he prepares the soil, plants the seeds – it’s like a chef talking about roasting and cooking. It’s a passion.

MacMillan: When you have a farmer in the desert call you and ask you what to plant, that’s huge. I think the younger movement and the older chefs have re-tapped into the local farming resources. Sourcing is such a huge advantage to a chef, and I’m always learning. There isn’t a minute that goes by that I’m not analyzing or tasting a new ingredient. [Certain ingredients] can just explode on the market scene, and the beauty is that there are guys out here that sell them and there are chefs that appreciate them. It’s phenomenal.

CHARLEEN, YOU’RE KNOWN AS THE VEGGIE WHISPERER. WERE YOU INSPIRED BY OUR LOCAL PRODUCE?

Badman: That helped, but about five years ago I made a lifestyle change and made vegetables the focus of my plate. Whatever interests me is what I’m going to cook, and that’s where it started. For me, it’s healthy and tastes great, and we have a lot to work with here. I send my chef friends in New York cases of locally grown lemons in December. They make the best Christmas presents. I love being able to share what we have here.

MacMillan: The first day I bit into a Queen Creek peach at its ripest point, I remember going, ‘Oh my God, seriously?’

Badman: And our farmers just keep pushing it. They ask me, ‘What do you want us to grow?’ And it’s been pretty successful – everything from spigarello to Gilfeather rutabagas.

Mecinas: I have guests asking more about the farm movement. It’s always been there, but people want to know more, like why do we have tomatoes in November and December? You go to the farmers’ markets here and it’s incredible. I grew up in California, and the Santa Monica market is getting bigger and bigger, but here the farmer is more directly connected with the chefs. At the end of the day, it’s important to have that relationship.

DO YOU FIND PEOPLE VIEW DINING OUT MORE AS AN EVENT?

MacMillan: Yes. People in this community really know how to celebrate life through food and wine. The other thing that’s spawned some great movement here is communal-style dining. Back in the day, when we sat down at a table, it was about passing and sharing. You learned about each other by breaking bread, and restaurants have tapped into creating a meal that is recognizable and sentimental. It evokes emotions and opens up the door to have a little more fun, to let loose a little bit, and share.

Mecinas: And I think that people are taking more time. After dinner, guests don’t want to rush. They want to sit, have a couple of glasses of wine, and enjoy the view.

Badman: It’s become an experience.

Comments edited for clarity and brevity.

At press time it was announced that Mel Mecinas was leaving the Four Seasons. You can now find him at Scottsdale National Golf Club. 🌿

AMAZING Arizona

Scottsdale's central-Arizona location means you're within easy reach of the state's most popular attractions and natural wonders.

There's plenty to see and do in Arizona, and Scottsdale makes the perfect home base from which to explore. Head out in any direction and you'll find a new adventure waiting for you!

Our state is probably best known as the home of the Grand Canyon, one of the world's most amazing natural wonders. An easy four-hour drive from Scottsdale will put you at the Canyon's South Rim, with its plentiful scenic overlooks, museums and shops.

And the fun doesn't stop there. Also to the north are the famous red rocks of Sedona, the sandstone monoliths of Monument Valley, and quirky historic towns like Prescott and Jerome.

To the south you'll find Kartchner Caverns, one of the world's only "living caves" open to the public, Southern Arizona also is home to Tombstone, "The Town Too Tough to Die"; the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum; Mount Lemmon Observatory and a roster of award-winning wineries.

For more statewide attractions and a handy driving-distance chart, see the Arizona map on the inside front cover. 🌵

STAY & PLAY

By Katarina Alaupovic

Traveling with children can be great. It also can be challenging.

How do you keep the kids occupied and happy while squeezing in some “me” time for a spa treatment or a round of golf? That’s easy – just leave the planning to the pros and kick back for a vacation full of sun and fun at these family-friendly Scottsdale resorts.

ACTIVE ESCAPES

There comes a point in life when even your youngest has outgrown kids’ clubs and teddy-bear teas, and that’s when it’s time to check into the Boulders Resort & Spa. Active families with teens and up love this high-desert escape for its spacious one- to four-bedroom villas, not to mention a jam-packed list of adventure options: night biking, rock climbing, desert fly-fishing and water rappelling, just to name a few. Its award-winning golf club caters to families, too, with short courses and a 30-minute golf camp.

BLAZING NEW TRAILS

You can keep tots tiny and tall busy all day long at Fairmont Scottsdale Princess’ Trailblazers Kids Club. Each day of the week brings a different hands-on activity, like exploring the resort’s wildlife or roasting s’mores in a solar oven. Mornings are all about sports or arts and crafts, while afternoons bring swimming and poolside games. And speaking of pools, the Princess has six of them, plus 830 tons of white sandy beach and two of Arizona’s longest resort waterslides.

FUN FOR ALL SEASONS

At Four Seasons Resort Scottsdale, kids and teens are welcomed with age-specific, regionally inspired amenities upon check-in and have their choice of diversions through the Kids for All Seasons program, including a movie theater, ping-pong, foosball and cultural crafts, plus a weekly calendar of stargazing, hiking and other desert-dwelling outings. Proof, An American Canteen entertains the whole fam with shuffleboard and a vintage Etch-a-Sketch, as well as special Sundaes on Sunday for an extra-sweet treat.

CULTURAL EXPLORATIONS

If you can peel your kids away from Hyatt Regency Scottsdale's pool – and it'll be tough, because it's really a 2.5-acre aquatic

FAIRMONT SCOTTSDALE PRINCESS

SEASONAL SOIRÉES

No matter what time of year you travel, there's always something fun happening at Scottsdale's resorts. Here's a sampling of the seasonal activities Scottsdale resorts have to offer.

Winter

Christmas at the Princess glistens with a four-story musical tree, more than 3 million twinkling lights, a desert ice skating rink and enchanted snowfall, plus a visit from St. Nick.

The Hyatt Regency Scottsdale Resort & Spa rings in the holidays with a life-sized Gingerbread Cottage nestled in a snow-capped forest, 54 lighted palm trees and serenading gondoliers strolling the resort grounds.

Spring

From upscale champagne affairs to family-style brunches with Easter Bunny photo-ops, Scottsdale's resorts celebrate spring in grand style. Check with your resort concierge for details.

Rides on the Bunny Express train, family-friendly concerts, a petting zoo and pony rides – you'll find it all at Fairmont Scottsdale Princess' BunnyPalooza.

Summer

The Hotel Valley Ho and Talking Stick Resort are known for their epic, adults-only summer pool parties, which feature live bands, talented DJs, signature cocktails and a see-and-be-seen atmosphere.

Swimming and movies combined – what's not to love? Dive-in movies are a summer staple at several Scottsdale resorts, including the Hyatt Regency Scottsdale, Fairmont Scottsdale Princess, The Phoenician, Four Seasons Resort Scottsdale and The Westin Kierland Resort & Spa.

Fall

The 5K Turkey Trot meanders through The Phoenician's scenic golf course, and a portion of the proceeds from the $20 entrance fee benefits a local charity.

Thanksgiving buffets abound at Scottsdale's resorts and include all your traditional favorites as well as a few Southwest specialties. Check with your resort for individual program details.

THE PHOENICIAN

playground with 10 swimming pools, 16 fountains, 40 waterfalls and a 30-foot, high-speed waterslide – they'll flip for Camp Hyatt Kachina. Here, mini explorers learn about the Sonoran Desert through creative crafting of dream catchers, rain sticks and Southwestern sand art. Fridays bring free Native American song and dance performances, and cowboy storytellers roam throughout the resort.

HIGH-FLYING FUN

There's much to dig into at The Phoenixian's Funicians Club, including crafts, games and activities that shine a light on Grand Canyon State history. October through April, the resort offers 90-minute I.FLY Trapeze classes for guests 4 and up, where you'll learn timing and techniques for swinging, locking your legs on a bar and completing the famous wrist-to-wrist catch. Meanwhile, iScavenger hunts provide fun on the ground with a journey of puzzles, games and exploration of the resort.

S'MORES, SURFING & SCAVENGER HUNTS

It's impossible not to have a good time at The Westin Kierland, where there's a staff member whose job is to make sure that you do! The resort's "Director of Fun" runs a kid-friendly check-in at Kierland Mining Co., where tykes receive a specialized scavenger hunt. Rotating resort activities range from s'mores roasts and PJ parties to Kids in the Kitchen cooking lessons. And lest we forget, water babies (and kids and grownups) go gaga for the Adventure Water Park, complete with lazy river, waterslide, pop-jet fountains and FlowRider surfing simulator. 🌊

afternoon tea

AT THE PHOENICIAN

Every girl dreams of afternoon tea. It's a dignified English tradition filled with sweets and treats. And you don't even have to cross the Pond: Afternoon tea awaits at The Phoenician in Scottsdale.

By Susan Lanier-Graham

Every day, The Phoenician serves a traditional British Afternoon Tea in its Lobby Tea Court. I recently treated my daughter-in-law and two granddaughters, Morgan and Zoë, ages 5 and 8, to a girls' afternoon of proper tea. Even with all the elegant china and scones, there were plenty of giggles to keep these three generations going.

When I discovered that the Lobby Tea Court at The Phoenician is open to the public, I did a little dance. And planned an outing for my girls. The elegant lobby, with its creamy marble and comfortable chairs in muted shades of sand and champagne, beckons visitors. The beautiful floral china evokes images of an English garden.

Tea Time

Each guest receives her own pot of tea before the waiter offers finger sandwiches. Morgan, my 5-year-old granddaughter, didn't bother to look at her mother. She was in control for this meal. "I'd like one of each, please." She tried each one but ended up eating three of the smoked-salmon sandwiches.

The second course is my favorite, with the buttermilk scones. Those sweet buttermilk scones, piled high with Devonshire cream, are pure perfection. I think I purred as I bit into that sweetness. The cranberry scones are also popular, and both work well with lemon curd and strawberry preserves.

As the pianist played soft sounds, our waiter offered up a tray filled with sweets and chocolates. Morgan again opted for one of each – except for the chocolate-dipped strawberries. She needed two of those, she explained (and breathlessly added, "I live for chocolate"). The éclairs, strawberries and coffee opera cakes were her favorites (and probably grandma's as well).

A Lasting Legacy

Afternoon Tea at The Phoenician is an experience of a lifetime. We were four ladies out for the afternoon. My daughter-in-law and I laughed at the antics of our two little girls and relaxed as someone else served us for a change. Both girls declared their love of Afternoon Tea at The Phoenician, and Zoë promised to bring her own daughter someday. 🌿

For more on Tea at The Phoenician, held each day from 2 to 3 p.m., visit thephoenician.com/lobby-tea-court.

Spa Experiences

BY DENA ROCHÉ

Scottsdale is the spa capital of the country, so when you're ready to go big before you go home, these are the ultimate spa luxuries in town.

CENTRE FOR WELL-BEING AT THE PHOENICIAN: THE BLISS PACKAGE

The name says it all. My day of bliss includes five services, a spa lunch and a meditation class to reflect on it all. First up is the Papaya Quench Wrap, which I choose for its hydrating benefits. As the therapist applies the masque, she comments on my tight back and shortens the wrap time in favor of a therapeutic massage (good call!). The deep pressure and trigger-point massage work quickly to loosen things up. The surprise of the day is the guided meditation class in zero-gravity chairs; it's as relaxing as a massage. I enjoy lunch before an afternoon facial chock-full of plant stem cells, collagen and elastin. The therapist tells me I look 10 years younger. That means I could pass for a coed, right? The day wraps up with a mani/pedi. With my feet soaking and glass of Chardonnay in hand, the biggest decision I have to make all day is between green or purple toes.

JOYA SPA AT OMNI SCOTTSDALERESORT & SPA AT MONTELUCCIA:*THE ROYAL TREATMENT

The Royal Treatment package is one of the best spa experiences in the world. First, a Town Car whisks my boyfriend and me to the spa. Once there, I peruse the boutique with a personal shopper before heading to the Grand Palace Suite. As chic as a Moroccan riad, it features a fireplace, a tub for two, his-and-hers massage tables, access to the terrace pool and a sumptuous $22,000 bed. A bottle of cava is delivered, which we sip in the pool before lunch at the Terrace Café. An afternoon couple's massage elevates our Zen. The Royal Treatment sets the stage for you and your sweetie to really relax, connect and simply enjoy being together – what a vacation is all about. While we're sad to leave the Grand Palace, a five-course, wine-paired dinner at Prado takes away the sting. The perfectly prepared Mediterranean cuisine and wine add a food coma to our Zen. By the time the Town Car drives us home, we're the most relaxed couple in Scottsdale.

AERIAL YOGA AT WELL & BEING SPA AT THE FAIRMONT SCOTTSDALE PRINCESS

WELL & BEING SPA AT THE FAIRMONT SCOTTSDALE PRINCESS

For holistic wellness, Well & Being Spa offers the ultimate experience. My morning begins with a trip to the BodPod to analyze my body composition, measuring fat vs. lean mass. Based on my numbers, the spa's exercise physiologist suggests tweaks to my exercise program and protein intake. After that wake-up call, I'm thrilled for my booty sculpt class, a full-body workout with elements of barre, Pilates and aerial yoga. I have time to relax by the rooftop pool and enjoy the water circuit in the locker room before a spa lunch of curried chicken salad (59 grams of protein!). My afternoon is devoted to Eastern medicine services, starting with craniosacral. The therapist explains that she taps into my cerebrospinal fluid rhythm, which allows her to regulate my stress response through light touch. She tells me that my energy is fast (an understatement) and holds different points for several minutes to slow me down. I don't know if she made me Type B, but I do feel chill afterward.

Next is cupping to release trapped toxins. The ancient treatment is used for everything from sore muscles to cold/flu relief. Cups are adhered to my back with heat suction. The therapist explains that my skin turning red indicates mild toxins, and the purple color even more toxicity. After 25 minutes, the cups are removed and the color thankfully fades. And my overall toxicity is low – whew! I finish my day with dinner at Toro, the property's Latin American restaurant and rum bar, where I sample the ceviche and sushi. I even toast to a perfect wellness day with some rum (alcohol toxins be darned!). 🌸

DOUBLEHEADERS On the Tee

By Tom Mackin

Playing a mere 18 holes isn't enough for you, is it? You want 36 holes in one day — without getting in and out of your car more than once. There may be no better place to do that than Scottsdale. Here are a few places to chase your new low score twice in a day.

The Stadium Course at the TPC Scottsdale gets plenty of well-deserved attention for hosting the Waste Management Phoenix

Open, but right across the street is the underrated Champions Course. It's less expensive, very walkable and has five par-3s.

The two courses at The Boulders Resort & Spa have offered cool desert golf since 1984, with gigantic rock outcroppings found throughout both. The back nine on the North Course is the longest and toughest, with multiple par-4s over 420 yards. The slightly shorter but tighter South Course has the edge in overall visual appeal, most notably on the fifth hole, which plays across a wash and directly at one of the famed boulder piles behind the green.

The Talon and Raptor courses at Grayhawk Golf Club exude a cool vibe (rock music oozes out of speakers hidden in rocks around the clubhouse and practice area), and the facility is home to some of the best in-between-rounds dining options anywhere. Raptor has hosted multiple professional events, including the PGA Tour's Frys.com Open.

Troon North set a new standard for desert golf when its Monument Course opened in 1990; that standard was raised five years later with the introduction of the Pinnacle Course. The two courses still live up to their vaunted reputation: the Pinnacle Course is the Best Public Course in Arizona, according to GOLF Magazine, while the Monument is just three spots behind.

The pair of courses at We-Ko-Pa Golf Club share long-distance views of nearby mountains from their site on land owned by the Fort McDowell Yavapai Nation. The Cholla Course debuted 15 years ago and just completed a $1.8 million renovation, including new grass on all greens and new sand in all bunkers. The more open but no less demanding Saguaro Course, created by Bill Coore and Ben Crenshaw, celebrated its 10th anniversary in 2016. Coore and Crenshaw also designed both courses at Talking Stick Golf Club, where the flattish landscape belies the strategic demands off the tee and around the greens.

The other good thing about playing 36 in Scottsdale? Special deals also mean a golf doubleheader can save you a few bucks, even during the peak season. Consider all of these 36-hole pairings a day well spent, no matter the score. 🌵

GOLF TECH

By Tom Mackin

Two of Scottsdale's most respected golf pros were born in Germany, have never worked outdoors, stand nine feet tall and weigh a combined 2,000 pounds. Yes, they are machines – Robo Golf Swing Trainers, to be precise.

In less than two years on the job, “Sofia” and “Jerry” have helped hundreds of golfers who have passed through the doors of Boccieri Golf in Scottsdale. Here's how: You hit some balls on a simulator while being watched by a highly experienced human golf professional; he also does a physical evaluation of your swing and discusses how you want to improve. You then hold onto a golf club attached to the robot's mechanical arms; it moves the club to positions that help you feel the swing you should be making. It's a cool and useful experience all at once – making the “feel” become real speeds up the learning process.

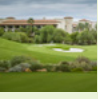

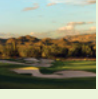

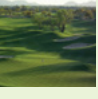

You also can wear a K-Vest that provides biofeedback on how your body is moving (or not) during your swing. You'll be standing on a force plate that shows your weight shift (or lack thereof) during the swing.

Boccieri Golf offers individual one-hour lessons, three-packs of lessons and an all-day intensive session that includes a putter fitting; or, you can go through a three-day boot camp that includes a round of golf with an instructor. The human kind, that is. See, Jerry and Sofia would love to join you out on the course, but they're pretty much bolted to their office. 🌿

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE

BOOTS & BURGERS

BY ROGER NAYLOR

It's a boots-and-burgers day, and those are my favorite days of all.

Here's the plan: I hike a few miles on a beautiful trail to work up an appetite, then head for a burger joint and treat myself to a blast of beefy goodness. Walk off a few calories and then pack them on again. I admire the Zen-like simplicity of it.

Scottsdale is a boots-and-burgers paradise because so many great hiking trails ramble through pristine desert in such close proximity to town and its wealth of eateries.

THE HIKE

I start by planting boots on Pinnacle Peak Trail, a wide manicured path that clambers up and over the shoulder of one of Scottsdale's most distinctive formations. Pinnacle Peak is a sudden vertical thrust of stone – like a rocket carved from granite, sitting on a launch pad ready for liftoff. If the Flintstones had attempted to put men on the moon, this is what their crude vessel would have looked like.

Pinnacle Peak Trail provides a genuine workout with plenty of ups and downs as it scrambles through a classic Sonoran Desert blend of saguaro, cholla, ocotillo, creosote and more. I love this terrain that seems so harsh at first, yet bristles with life. Hikers will find two impressive overlooks with benches, signs identifying plants, and regular mileage markers to chart their progress.

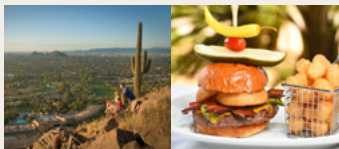

The 1.75-mile trail skirts the actual summit, leaving that protrusion for experienced rock climbers. It swings around the backside of the formation and drops down to a saddle before climbing the flank of another rocky hill. I savor panoramas of distant mountains, as well as closer peeks

This is not a loop trail. I reach the western terminus and retrace my steps for a 3.5-mile hike. Long before I'm back at the trailhead, I know where I'm going to eat.

THE MEAL

Zinburger occupies a corner of stylish Scottsdale Quarter. The restaurant is a bright, cheerful place, with rustic tables inside and a patio shaded by towering palm trees. I order the signature Zinburger, a basket of their ridiculously addictive truffle fries and a milkshake of sea salt caramel, which is butterscotch that's gone through puberty.

It's a beautifully balanced burger, a fresh ground Angus patty topped with manchego cheese, Zinfandel-braised onions and shredded lettuce. The mild nuttiness of the cheese and sweetness of the onions enhance the flavor profile of the juicy beef without stealing the spotlight. And the shredded lettuce is a nice retro touch, reminding me of the burgers of my youth.

It's just after lunchtime and I've already had a fantastic day – a boots-and-burger day. What's on your agenda? 🌵

ACTIVITIES

SEE THE SIGHTS

sips OF SCOTTSDALE

by Christina Barrueta

In recent years, Arizona's flourishing wine industry has garnered national recognition and multiple awards. According to the Arizona Wine Growers Association, there are now 83 licensed and bonded wineries in our state. I've spent time touring our three major wine-growing regions: lush Verde Valley to the north, and the hillside vineyards of Sonoita/Elgin and the Willcox Bench to the south.

Now, however, I don't have to leave Scottsdale to spend an afternoon sampling some of these acclaimed wines. Happily for us, there are four downtown tasting rooms located within a 1-mile radius.

SALVATORE VINEYARDS

At this tasting room, featuring both Passion Cellars and Salvatore Vineyards, I settle in at the inviting seating area overlooking Scottsdale's famed Arabian horse fountain or pull up a stool at the L-shaped wine bar. Wine lovers have a choice of five wines from two tasting flights, Passion Cellars for $12 or Salvatore Vineyards for $20. Both labels source grapes such as Tempranillo, Sangiovese and Malvasia Bianca from Willcox vineyards. salvatorevineyards.com

LDV WINERY

This charming spot welcomes guests with two shady patios, a small shop stocked with local artisanal products, and an art gallery, currently featuring award-winning wine photographer Jenelle Bonifield. Enjoy a tasting of Rhône varietals, such as Grenache, Viognier and Syrah, harvested and bottled on LDV's vineyard located at the foothills of the Chiricahua Mountains in Pearce. LDV also hosts wine dinners and classes and is a popular private-event venue. ldvwinery.com

CARLSON CREEK VINEYARD

The newest addition to Scottsdale is Carlson Creek, which opened its doors in July 2016. It's a bright and airy space anchored by custom details such as a tin ceiling, a 20-foot wine-barrel bar with a distressed-copper bar top, and barrel-hoop pendant lights. Pull up a stool and taste award-winning wines grown in Willcox and leave with a complimentary insignia wine glass. Every other Friday, co-owner Robert Carlson conducts blind tastings and wine classes. carlsoncreek.com

ARIDUS WINE COMPANY

Aridus started with a custom-crush and wine-making facility for neighboring wine growers, and now it produces its own wine with grapes sourced from New Mexico or a 40-acre Willcox vineyard. I love the modern industrial space warmed with reclaimed wood and the tasting bar lit by three sparkling globe chandeliers. The $10 fee for a five-flight wine tasting from Malbec to Chardonnay is waived with the purchase of a bottle.

ACE BAILEY OF ULTIMATE
ART & CULTURAL TOURS

URBAN TOURS:

The Best of Scottsdale's Art, Culture and Food

By Susan Lanier-Graham

Photos by Jill Richards

I moved to Scottsdale almost 25 years ago, but taking local tours has shown me parts of downtown I never knew existed. These are a great way to see why Scottsdale is such a favorite destination – and a great place to live.

ART & CULTURAL TROLLEY TOUR

The Downtown Scottsdale Art and Cultural Trolley Tour is the city's best-kept secret. Ultimate Art and Cultural Tours presents this free exploration of downtown under the witty guidance of Ace Bailey. As a former art coordinator and curator, Ace offers a unique perspective on Scottsdale. She also works part-time as a concierge at Hotel Valley Ho, so she has all the inside scoop on the city – where to shop, dine and explore.

SCOTTSDALE TROLLEY

The two-hour trolley tour closely follows the route of the regular Scottsdale trolley, but with Ace pointing out gems along the way. This makes it easy to go back to the places you fancy. The tour is in big demand and only offered once a month on the second Saturday, so book in advance. For my tour, we all met at Hotel Valley Ho (the starting location varies) to board the air-conditioned trolley.

During the tour, we discovered fun city tidbits. Designers used to set up runways down the middle of Fifth Avenue for fashion shows. Scottsdale Artists' School is open for visitors to see international art students at work. The gorgeous Soleri Bridge casts a shadow every day at solar noon, creating a stripe guiding guests across the canal. Ace offered suggestions on places to shop and eat, but I won't give away all of her secrets. Visit online at ultimatearttours.com to reserve your spot on the tour.

CHOCOLATE TOUR OF SCOTTSDALE

If you visit between October and May, book a walking tour with Chocolate Tour of Scottsdale. This 2.5 hours is a sweet way to explore town, combining fun local lore with chocolate. My favorite is Chocolate van Brugge's Belgian chocolates. Or maybe the cupcakes at Sprinkles. Or those chocolate-cake truffles at Classic Cakes and Confections.

SOLERI BRIDGE

CHOCOLADE VAN BRUGGE

TASTE IT TOURS

If you're looking to blend in some foodie love on your visit – one of my favorite ways to explore any destination – Taste It Tours offers two excursions in downtown Scottsdale. The three-hour tours take place every weekend, rain or shine. The Sunday-morning Taste of Scottsdale makes five stops as you wander downtown, getting a bit of the city's colorful history. The international bites range from old-school Mexican at Los Olivos in Old Town to English classics at Cornish Pasty in the Arts District. The Saturday-afternoon Trolley Food Tour also features five stops, including one of my favorites, ZuZu at Hotel Valley Ho. Both include a sweet taste or two along the way. This is one of my favorite ways to spend a half-day in Scottsdale. 🌿

UNLEASH CREATIVITY

HOW TO ArtWalk

Story and photos by Christina Barrueta

Every Thursday evening, the Scottsdale ArtWalk takes place in downtown, and I can't think of a better way to explore all that the historic Arts District has to offer. Meander through the art galleries, shops and restaurants along Main Street and Marshall Way while admiring sculptures and enjoying street performances. In addition, throughout the year the Gold Palette ArtWalk Series presents special themes, such as the Native Spirit and Western Spirit ArtWalks, and the Art In Motion ArtWalk, combining fine art with video artists.

A personal favorite is the International ArtWalk. Galleries host artists and images from around the world and visitors can stroll down the streets past live music and performances representing the seven continents. I admired a stunning collection of Asian lanterns outside the galleries, Vietnamese artists at the Calvin Charles Gallery and East Indian dance at the Amery Bohling Fine Art, and I was entertained as I strolled by a calypso band and Japanese taiko drums.

In between your art encounters, take advantage of some of Scottsdale's best food, cocktails, wine and craft beers. Starting on Main Street? Craft 64 is a casual spot that boasts artisan pizzas, 30+ local beers and a 100-bottle wine list. For cocktails, try one of their Moscow Mule options. I'm naturally partial to the Write on Ruby (named after my Write on Rubee website), made with Campari, local Commerce gin and AZ Bitters Lab Orange Sunshine bitters. They proudly source local ingredients, such as the Schreiner's bacon piled high on their bistro salad or BLT, or their own brews in the Local Sampler.

For something more upscale, I'm in love with Sel, a new Scottsdale favorite housed in a former gallery. Dishes can be ordered à la carte or as part of a prix-fixe menu. Take a seat on the inviting patio and try dishes such as a crispy squash blossom stuffed with mesquite-smoked lobster on a pool of sweet corn purée or a refreshing yellow tomato gazpacho with white peach granita and tarragon oil.

Take a break from the galleries and stop in for a tasting flight of award-winning Arizona wines at Carlson Creek Vineyards and Aridus Wine Company, both conveniently located on Main Street.

Along Marshall Way, start or end at citizen public house, known for its craft cocktails, such as a Manhattan embellished with maple syrup and tobacco bitters, and a creative menu by chef Bernie Katak. The famous Original Chopped Salad is a must-order before moving on to delicious fare such as scallops and pea greens on creamy roasted corn grits or tender octopus with chouriço and watermelon gazpacho. At charming FnB on nearby Fifth Avenue, James Beard Award-nominated chef Charleen Badman is acclaimed for her seasonal farm-to-table menu, as is co-owner Pavle Milic for his extensive Arizona wine list.

Fine art, great food, craft beer and cocktails – it's just another ArtWalk evening in Scottsdale. 🌿

windbells & architecture

STORY & PHOTOS BY
SUSAN LANIER-GRAHAM

Cosanti is one of Arizona's most eclectic treasures. Hidden on a quiet residential street in Paradise Valley, Cosanti is part art studio and part architectural experiment. The landscaping highlights what is possible in the desert, and exploring the grounds and buildings is an ideal way to spend a couple of hours on a sunny afternoon.

Paolo Soleri was a colorful and passionate Italian architect who first came to Arizona in 1947 as a student of architect Frank Lloyd Wright. Soleri became known for his work on bridges, but his passion was creating frugal, self-sustaining cities. He spent his life working toward that vision and developed a concept he termed arcology (architecture + ecology). Soleri and his wife moved to Scottsdale in 1956 and founded Cosanti as their home and studio.

Cosanti – which means “Before (or Against) Things” in Italian – was a living experiment for Soleri’s vision, and he resided there until his death in 2013. I was fascinated with the domes that seemed to defy gravity. Soleri created earth-formed concrete structures, giving everything a bit of an otherworldly feel.

Soleri is probably best known for his beautiful hand-poured bronze windbells. The Cosanti Foundation continues to create more than 50,000 bells each year. As I wandered the grounds on a self-guided tour, the rhythmic sound of all those bells mesmerized me. If you visit on a weekday morning, you might be lucky enough to witness a bronze casting. Cosanti is open daily. 🌿

No one needs another city-branded coffee mug to collect dust in the kitchen cabinet. Remember your trip to Scottsdale with a unique memento from these one-off shops instead.

SUPER CHUNK SWEETS & TREATS

What began as a single, much-desired batch of caramel corn (chocolate bacon) for Cowboy Ciao restaurant blossomed into a full-blown confectionery extravaganza from pastry chef Country Velador. Her downtown Scottsdale shop, which she runs with husband/business partner Sergio, is brimming with mouth-watering (though possibly head-scratching) flavor combos: mesquite chocolate-chip shortbread, duck-fat toffee candy, even ancho chocolate caramels. The tastiest token you'll pick up from your trip to Scottsdale, no doubt! superchunk.me

CHIEF DODGE INDIAN JEWELRY

When you purchase a sterling-silver cuff bracelet or turquoise-speckled concha belt from family-owned Chief Dodge, you're buying direct from local Native American artists. With an emphasis on authenticity, much of the boutique's handcrafted jewelry is made onsite in the silversmithing studio. Watch live as talented artists – sometimes two or three generations of the same family – turn simple flat sheets of silver into everything from earrings to pendants and necklaces. chiefdodge.com

THE GARAGE BOUTIQUE

Got a stylish mini-me at home who's expecting a fashion-forward souvenir upon your return? The Garage has you covered. You'll find sweet and sassy kids' graphic tees, distressed designer denim, and bright and bold handbags and backpacks. (Because even the tiniest style icons need a good statement piece.) Even if the little ones don't care much about being en vogue, they'll love The Garage's collection of quirky trinkets and toys. Really, who wouldn't want a unicorn nightlight?

SIX UNEXPECTED AMENITIES AT SCOTTSDALE MALLS

By Katarina Alapauvic

We're going to let you in on a secret – well, six of them. Scottsdale's most popular shopping destinations are known for their top-tier boutiques and outstanding restaurants, but it's these unexpected amenities that are sure to make your retail-loving heart beat just a little faster.

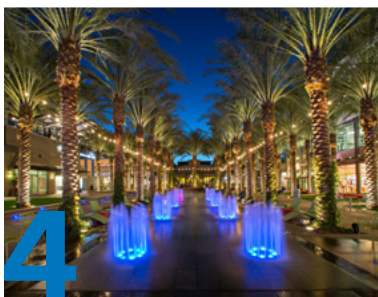

Text-based concierge services at Scottsdale Fashion Square (480-568-5568) and Kierland Commons (480-386-6020) make it easy to locate specific products and sales – they'll even make dinner reservations!

Athleta at Kierland Commons features a series of free fitness classes each month – boot camps, yoga sessions and even barre lessons. (Psst . . . there are also exclusive shopping parties and happy hours!)

The Shop & Spa package at Scottsdale Fashion Square comes with a complimentary makeover at Sephora, a healthy skin consult and samples at Kiehl's, and a private 30-minute facial from Spa Nordstrom.

"The Quad" at Scottsdale Quarter is home to the area's largest splash pad. Bring the kids and their suits, and kick back with a caffeine jolt from local Press Coffee Roasters.

Don't forget your room key! During the holiday season, that tiny magnetic card will snag big rewards. Flash it and your out-of-town I.D. to the concierges at Kierland Commons, Scottsdale Fashion Square and the Arizona Biltmore for up to $350 in savings.

Scottsdale Quarter hosts a free live fall concert series with performances from some of the best local acts, including Rock Lobster (retro '80s), Elvis Before Noon (pop meets indie rock) and The Rave (British invasion).

DINING

EAT LIKE A LOCAL

By Dawson Fearnow

Go underground (in one instance, literally) with this roundup of Scottsdale's hidden gems, secret menus and insider-only tips.

SEAFOOD SANCTUARY

A local landmark since 1971, the Salt Cellar Restaurant still manages to fly under the radar – probably because it's literally a cellar, with nothing visible from the street except a couple of white sheds and a soaring smokestack. But follow the wooden staircase down three flights and you'll discover yourself awash in nautical nirvana, debating between the massive chalkboard list of today's freshly flown-in fruits of the sea or one of the live Maine lobsters sulking in a water tank. Insider's tip: Sidle up to the brass-bedecked bar for the always-hoppin' daily happy hours (4 to 7 p.m. and again from 10 p.m. to close).

GAS 'N GO

In the classic 1983 movie "National Lampoon's Vacation," Chevy Chase jokes that he's so hungry he'd eat a sandwich from a gas station. Well, here in Scottsdale, people drive across town to The Thumb for the award-winning BBQ and more from this unique gas station/car wash/bakery and restaurant/gift shop/fine liquor store.

Insider's tip: BBQ is king here, but don't sleep on the hearty breakfast fare, like the dangerously delicious Pigs & Grits sandwich (now available all day).

YOUR PERSONAL FISHMONGER

Don't judge Sushi Roku, a sleek, sexy satellite of the Los Angeles original, for its looks, because it also boasts some serious sushi chops. For a true taste of Japan, grab a seat at the central sushi bar and order "omakase" or chef's choice for the freshest catch o' the day. Insider's tip: Three words: Champagne Sunday Brunch (the second Sunday of each month).

MENU-LESS MASTERPIECE

Plenty of restaurants brag about their ever-changing menus, but at POSH there's no menu, ever. Instead, the waitstaff hands you a list of today's fresh ingredients, you choose how many courses you want, cross off anything you're not interested in, note any allergies or dislikes, and then your meal is entirely in the talented hands of chef/owner Joshua Hebert. Insider's tip: While the ingredients change nightly, you can count on Tuesday Ramen Night. 🌿

LATE-NITE EATS

This trio of downtown eateries is perfect for a Saturday late-night snack, with hours that run well past midnight.

FOLLOW YOUR NOSE

Tucked inside a tiny street-front space in the heart of downtown Scottsdale, Mr. Mesquite Taqueria may be hard to find, but once you get close it's impossible to miss. Simply follow the heady, heavenly aroma of spicy, smoky meats sizzling atop a massive wood-burning grill. Yes, this popular walk-up food stand serves up three different types of authentic street tacos (chicken, steak or mixed), all freshly grilled to order and paired with your choice of traditional toppings such as onions, cilantro and two types of housemade salsas. Pop open a bottle of imported Mexican Coke, find a spot to sit, and then get ready to enjoy Scottsdale's tastiest street feast. 480-758-4859

LATIN LINKS

Simon's is not your average hot dog stand. Led by the husband-and-wife team of Felipe and Marcela Roldan, Simon's specializes in authentic Columbian street foods such as ceviche or salchipapas (French fries topped with sliced sausage and savory-sweet Simon's sauce). However, the real stars here are the housemade beef, vegetarian or even vegan hot dogs topped with a variety of unique fixin's. Don't miss the strangely delicious Colombian (sweet pineapple, crushed potato chips, mozzarella cheese and Simon's sauce) or the exotic Tokyo Madness (teriyaki onions, wasabi mayo and toasted sushi nori), but be sure to save room for the buttery soft alfajores cookies filled with decadent dulce de leche. simonshotdogs.net

NIGHT OWLS NEEDED

If absence truly makes the heart grow fonder, you'll love Counter Intuitive, a micro-sized craft-cocktail bar, which is only open on Fridays and Saturdays from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. Furthermore, the food, drinks and even the décor are all switched out every six weeks or so, in order to make way for an all-new theme, such as previous favorites like "Big Trouble in Little China." facebook.com/counterintuitiveaz

THE MIGHTY

Prickly Pear

PRICKLY PEAR MARGARITA

LA HACIENDA
PRICKLY PEAR MARGARITA

THERE ARE FEW MORE iconic Arizona images than a stately saguaro silhouetted against a vibrant setting sun, but there is another Sonoran Desert cactus that I love: the mighty prickly pear. Most visitors wouldn't think of cactus as fruit-bearing, but the "pears" (also called tuna) from the Opuntia cactus are edible, as are the flat cactus pads (nopales) and flowers. The pads yield a tangy, crispy texture that has been compared to green beans, while the petals can be used as a garnish. The fruit, with its vivid magenta hue, catches the eye both on the plant as well as in dishes and beverages. With its tart melon-like sweetness, it's most often used in candy or syrups, but I also enjoy prickly pear in savory dishes, barbecue sauce, salads and cocktails.

At Gertrude's at the Desert Botanical Garden, visitors can try cocktails and desserts made from prickly pears that have been harvested on-site. Brunch isn't complete for my friends and me without flutes of sparkling prickly-pear mimosas.

BOTANICAL GARDEN

In the evening, we enjoy pre-dinner drinks such as the Tombstone Tea, a potent blend of spirits sweetened with lime simple syrup and prickly-pear nectar; and the Cactus Cosmo, made with house-infused prickly-pear vodka. For dessert, I have to order the airy sugar-dusted ricotta donut holes with a dipping sauce trio including prickly-pear jelly.

Prickly pear is a natural partner for agave spirits in colorful margaritas. Visit La Hacienda at the Fairmont Scottsdale Princess, where their libation mixes Tres Agaves Blanco tequila and fresh sour mix, or Onyx at the Four Seasons Scottsdale for a prickly-pear margarita shaken up with Don Julio Añejo, Cointreau and lime. Relish Burger Bistro at The Phoenician resort boasts a 200+-bottle tequila collection, and their frozen margarita is supplemented with Don Julio Blanco, Cointreau, and sweetened lemon and lime juices (it also can be ordered poolside).

And if you were to ask my favorite sunset prickly-pear cocktail? You'd find me at Orange Sky sipping on a prickly-pear martini while enjoying the magical view from the 15th floor of Talking Stick Resort.

Cheers to the prickly pear! 🌵

DOWNTOWN SCOTTSDALE'S ENTERTAINMENT DISTRICT

EMBRACE THE NIGHT

Last Night a DJ

Saved My Life

TIPS FOR SURVIVING (AND ENJOYING) SCOTTSDALE'S
NIGHTLIFE SCENE

By Biancca Dominguez

It's finally Friday, which means that after a week of planning and too much group texting, it's time to dress up and dance with my babes!

With 2 a.m. in mind, I go over all of my "Downtown Best Practices:" fully charge the phone; Uber everywhere; eat something; drink for the long haul; do bottle service; end the night at the bar; and when all else fails, dance!

Before leaving, I place water and Advil on my nightstand and check my purse for the essentials: wallet, keys, phone, portable charger – check, check, check and check. I throw on my magical stilettos – the ones I can actually dance in – and it's on!

Sushi is the shining star of pre-going-out meals! It pairs nicely with champagne, which isn't too high in alcohol content — again, think long haul. And the rice helps out in the clutch. We start at Sushi Roku, because it's one of the best spots for Asian cuisine. Located inside the W Scottsdale Hotel, their VIP service and sexy atmosphere are unmatched – as in they will personally walk you to the club to ensure you don't wait in line.

Fueled on champagne and sushi, we're ready to dance; and it's almost 11 p.m., the perfect time to head to the club. Once there, I always do bottle service. No one likes to wait in line, and El Hefe knows how to do VIP. At El Hefe, there are flashing lights, sweaty people dancing all around us, girls on guys' shoulders with bottles and whistles coming toward us, and confetti, lots of confetti. In this world, dancing on the table while singing your heart out is not only welcomed, it's encouraged! Shout-out to DJ Thomas James for keeping the energy high. Just like the Indeep song says, "Last night a DJ saved my life . . ."

Now, to change it up, Counter Intuitive is the breath of fresh air we need! Only open Friday and Saturday nights, CI is unlike any other bar in downtown with rotating concepts and a focus on mixology, history and product. A socialite haven that's always packed, CI is where we're happy to spend our last hour with familiar faces and some of the industry's best mixologists. The fact that they have food doesn't hurt, either!

TURNING UP THE HEAT AT EL HEFE

Well, I've made it to 2 a.m., and this is another one for the record books! I get home, take my Advil, and make sure that my alarm is set for brunch. After all, the best way to follow a night out in Scottsdale is with brunch on a sunny bistro patio. Bloody Mary, anyone? 🌿

HASH KITCHEN: This is the granddaddy of all Bloody Mary bars. Build your own from more than 40 – count 'em, 40 – craft toppings including crab legs, fried mozzarella sticks, bacon, Slim Jims, asparagus, pickles, hot peppers . . . well, you get the idea. hashkitchen.com

CHEERS FOR THE COACH HOUSE!

STORY AND PHOTOS BY KERRICK JAMES

WHO DOESN'T LOVE A GOOD DIVE BAR? Yes, Scottsdale is famous for upscale bars with gorgeous architecture and chichi ambience, where one always feels obligated to dress up. But I cherish just ambling over to a neighborhood watering hole in my shorts and flip-flops, wetting my whistle without donning a collared shirt.

The Coach House has thrived in Old Town Scottsdale since 1959. It's our oldest tavern – still owned by the founding family. Back then there was just one stoplight in Scottsdale, and you could ride here on a horse (and maybe buy him a beer too). Nowadays, the Coach House feels like our very own “Cheers,” with regulars returning here year after year, season after season.

Lovingly described as a self-professed dive bar by its loquacious manager, David Bauer, the Coach House is staffed by a longtime crew of friendly bartenders and security gents. I talked with them while sipping a cold one, and I was impressed by how many patrons they welcomed by first name as they walked in the door. “Where everybody knows your name,” indeed.

During Spring Training, you can belly up to the bar with other Cactus League fans, way before and long after games, as the Coach House is open from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. This allows quality time to talk baseball past and present and rehydrate after the last out at nearby Scottsdale Stadium.

HOT TIP: Every Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m., Coach House offers barbecue out front, which is free if you buy just one drink. Best deal in Scottsdale? Absolutely. And don't miss the holiday lights from mid-November through New Year's, which transform the Coach House into a dive bar with carnival colors and an Arizona atmosphere. Cheers! 🍀

EXPLORE THE CITY

SCOTTSDALE À go-go

It's not the destination, it's the journey – so tour the town in style with Scottsdale's most unique forms of transportation.

By Dawson Fearnow

Horse Power

Put a little giddy-up into your day, or add a little sparkle to your evening, with a horse-drawn carriage ride through downtown Scottsdale. Housed inside downtown's only working horse livery, Scottsdale Horse and Carriage offers everything from boot-scooting stage-coach rides to a romantic carriage ride nightcap (complete with champagne) for your next dinner date. Enjoy free pick-up and drop-off at more than a dozen restaurants and hotels across downtown. scottsdalehorseandcarriage.com

Go Green

No, you're not imagining things, those really are golf carts you spotted driving down the road. In fact, both street-legal golf-cart taxis and bicycle pedicabs are a popular way to get around the compact streets of downtown Scottsdale; just wave one down. No reservations needed!

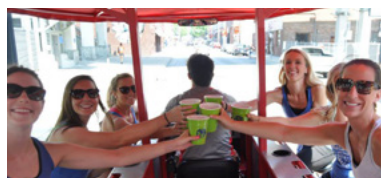

Take the Trolley

Everyone loves Scottsdale's sunny days and sweeping desert vistas – until you have to hoof it halfway across town. Next time, simply hop on Ollie the Trolley, which is the nickname for the free trolley system offering door-to-door service to hundreds of destinations in the downtown and central Scottsdale area. scottsdaleaz.gov/trolley

Nice Segway

If you still associate those stand-up Segway scooters with mall security guards, you need to check out Adventures Out West's off-road Segway tours. Rolling through the rugged deserts of the nearby Fort McDowell Indian Reservation, these two-hour rides offer over-sized tires to safely transport you across postcard-perfect landscapes. Or, for a more urban experience, check out Scottsdale Segway Tours (rated the No. 1 tour in town by both TripAdvisor and Yelp) for a guided "roll to remember" through downtown Scottsdale. adventuresoutwest.com

Party to Go

What do you call a 14-person, bicycle-powered bar on wheels? Hop aboard the Arizona Party Bike for a pedal-powered pub crawl through Old Town that's led by a certified bike pilot, allowing you to sip and sing along with your new BFFs on this mobile bar. arizonapartybike.com

Bike the Belt

For a more traditional two-wheeled experience, pedal on over to Pedego Scottsdale, where they rent a wide variety of electric-powered bikes. Or hit up Spinners on the Green, a Frisbee-golf store that also stocks a variety of bikes for rent (and is located right off the 11-mile-long collection of pathways and city parks known as the Scottsdale Greenbelt). pedegoscottsdale.com, spinnersonthegreen.com 🌵

“The desert, with its rim of arid mountains spotted like the leopard’s skin or tattooed with amazing patterns of creation, is a grand garden the like of which in sheer beauty of reach, space and pattern does not exist, I think, in the world.”

-Frank Lloyd Wright

There's always something special about being the first. The first boot prints on the trail at sunrise, the first one into the pool, the first person to tee off under towering saguaros. Such moments are powerful, and we know them well. We were the first luxury resort in Scottsdale, and we've carried that feeling with us since 1936.

A lot has changed since then. Today our dramatic resort beneath majestic Mummy Mountain encompasses 125 acres. We have two championship golf courses, Scottsdale's most beloved spa, exceptional dining options and endless recreation. On the other hand, a lot has stayed the same here. We love the art of hospitality more than ever and we continue to perfect it through the decades. We take away unnecessary distractions and take care of your every desire.

Discover undiluted desert beauty, enchanting Southwestern charm and luxurious hospitality at Camelback Inn. Let us be the first to welcome you.
