There’s always something special about being the first. The first boot prints on the trail at sunrise, the first one into the pool, the first person to tee off under towering saguaros. Such moments are powerful, and we know them well. We were the first luxury resort in Scottsdale, and we’ve carried that feeling with us since 1936.

A lot has changed since then. Today our dramatic resort beneath majestic Mummy Mountain encompasses 125 acres. We have two championship golf courses, Scottsdale’s most beloved spa, exceptional dining options and endless recreation. On the other hand, a lot has stayed the same here. We love the art of hospitality more than ever and we continue to perfect it through the decades. We take away unnecessary distractions and take care of your every desire.

Discover undiluted desert beauty, enchanting Southwestern charm and luxurious hospitality at Camelback Inn. Let us be the first to welcome you.

We’re thrilled that you’re considering Scottsdale for your next getaway, because we have something exceptional in store for you.

One of the first things you’ll notice when you arrive is the stirring beauty of our Sonoran Desert. The remarkable clarity of light, exotic cactus blossoms and lush desert landscape create an environment that will leave you inspired. It’s the perfect place to breathe a little deeper, let go of everyday worries, and settle in to an easier pace. That’s when you’re ready for some Scottsdale-style adventure and exploration.

To help you plan your journey, we’ve reached out to some of our favorite local experts (meet them on pgs. 8-9). From their perfect-day itineraries and favorite historic homes-turned-restaurants to the excitement of downtown Scottsdale, they’ll give you the inside scoop on the best our city has to offer.

So sit back, relax and let your curiosity ride shotgun as we introduce you to Scottsdale from the insiders’ points of view. 🌵
After a 5 a.m. wake-up and a cold brew (coffee, that is), I’m on my bike for a challenging 50-mile ride circumnavigating the McDowell Mountains. A few friends from AOA Adventures join me and we pedal by the pristine Sonoran Desert foothills as the sun rises.

aoa-adventures.com

Brunch, somewhere fresh and local, is necessary after a ride like this. The light, savory breakfasts at downtown Scottsdale’s Farm & Craft are perfect paired with a fresh-pressed juice and a light kombucha cocktail to pick me up after the morning’s ride. My friend Elaine and I stop on the way out to add our thoughts to their “Love Is” board.

ilovefarmandcraft.com

My perfect day always has to be somewhat “productive,” and in Scottsdale it’s easy to relax while knocking things off the to-do list. Today, I’m shopping at Carmen’s on Fifth Avenue for Arizona gifts for family and friends far away. Saguaro earrings, anyone?

shopcarmen.com

My perfect Scottsdale day is all about balance. For me, life requires just the right mix of adventure, hard work, relaxation and indulgence.
Next stop, Cartel Coffee Lab, where I can write notes to go with the little gifts I’ve just bought. The buzz of downtown (or is it the caffeine?) tends to help me focus. cartelcoffeelab.com

One of my favorite relaxation “treats” is a Joya Spa day pass at the Omni Montelucia. If I’m feeling beat up from my ride, I might opt for a massage. But it’s almost as much fun to simply enjoy the spa’s amenities like the rooftop pool, steam room and relaxation lounges. joyaspa.com

I started the day on my bike, I like to finish it that way too. I’ll meet my husband and friends at Scottsdale’s Greenbelt, where we’ll hop on our “bar bikes” and pedal downtown to catch some live music, then “bar hop” our way home by hitting all our favorite craft beer spots – Goldwater Brewing, McFate, The Vig at McCormick Ranch and Scottsdale Brewing Company, to name a few. goldwaterbrewing.com / mcfatebrewing.com thevig.us / scottsdalebeercompany.com
Tell your kids to turn off their smartphone (and then put yours away as well) because you’re about to experience some Scottsdale-sized adventure! Here’s how my son and I spent our perfect Scottsdale day.

My son, Benton, and I kickstart our day with sunshine and comfort food on the patio at ZuZu at the Hotel Valley Ho. After classic buttermilk pancakes, red velvet waffles and two Frosty Oranges (or Ho-Js, as we call this decadent blend of vanilla ice cream and freshly squeezed OJ), we’re raring for adventure!

Penguins, otters and sharks are just a few of the sea creatures we encounter at OdySea Aquarium. I’m pretty sure Benton has already added the SeaTREK Helmet Diving experience, a wet-and-wild walk across the bottom of a fish-filled aquarium, to his next perfect-day wish list.

After a quick lesson, we don flight suits for indoor skydiving at iFLY. With the help of our ever-present instructor, we float, swirl and twirl in the glass-enclosed wind tunnel like pros! Best of all? We don’t have to jump out of a perfectly fine airplane.

All that flying worked up an appetite, so we head for Frank & Lupe’s Old Mexico, a longtime gem tucked amid the galleries of downtown Scottsdale. Dishes featuring New Mexico chiles are their spicy specialty. Kids will love the all-American eats like the corn dog and fries, while adults will appreciate the frosty margaritas. frankandlupes.com

Next, we unleash our inner cowboys at MacDonald’s Ranch. Their expert wranglers match us with horses based on our skill level (or lack thereof), and soon we’re riding through stands of saguaros and palo verde trees like the cowboys of old. Giddyup! macdonaldsranch.com

Nothing soothes a cowboy’s parched throat as well as a sundae, shake or banana split at the Sugar Bowl, a downtown Scottsdale landmark since 1958. We opt for a chocolate sundae and a bowl of classic mint chip. A cool end to the ultimate father-son Scottsdale day. sugarbowlscottsdale.com
I’ve long been a fan of Steve Heller’s 90-minute FORE-MAX Golf Fitness class held weekday mornings at The Westin Kierland Resort & Spa. It’s a great stretch to start the day and (hopefully) wake up the golf muscles. kierlandresort.com

Next is breakfast with my favorite person in the world (Mrs. Mackin) at one of my favorite places (Pinnacle Peak General Store) in Scottsdale, where a waffle, bacon and eggs fill up the fuel tank. pinnaclepeakgeneralstore.com

Golf is not a game of perfect, as the well-known book title goes. But you can certainly base a perfect day around it!
There’s few prettier, or better, courses than the pair at We-Ko-Pa Golf Club. Today I’ll tee it up on my favorite of the two: the sublime Saguaro Course, designed by Scottsdale resident Bill Coore and two-time Masters winner Ben Crenshaw. wekopa.com

My score wasn’t as low as I hoped, so I head to Bocciere Golf for a swing tune-up on the high-tech Robo Golf Swing Trainer. After just 10 minutes of proper swings on the robot, pro Blake Isakson has my game straightened out! boccieregolf.com

I’m now ready for more golf, but I’m running out of daylight, so I meet some golf buddies for drinks and dinner at Toro in the TPC Scottsdale clubhouse. We toast to future rounds together. Who’s in? fairmont.com/scottsdale

What does botany have to do with handcrafted leather furniture?
In the case of Buffalo Collection, everything.
In the early 1990s, plant biologist Julie Littlefield purchased 9,000 acres of land in Hotchkiss, Colorado called Scenic Mesa Ranch. Overgrazed and undernourished, the one-time cattle ranch was in need of serious restoration. So, Littlefield brought in a herd of 300 American bison, gentle roaming beasts whose feeding habits actually helped replenish – not deplete – the grass and soil.

Scenic Mesa and its wildlife thrived, so much so that Littlefield, now a full-fledged rancher, was faced with another question common to the trade: How to maintain a delicate ecological balance? She began thinning the herd – 10 percent each year, per industry standards – and selling the all-natural, grass-fed meat to local shops. It wasn’t until a happenstance meeting with a furniture maker, who was vacationing at the ranch, that Littlefield realized she could put the hides to good use, too.

Fast-forward to the present, and Buffalo Collection, now owned by husband-wife team Michael and Laura Levenberg, is one of the country’s premier retailers for handcrafted American furniture. The couple, who met working in the store’s original Aspen location, opened their Scottsdale showroom in 2011 and officially purchased the company from Littlefield in 2014. They carry on Littlefield’s original philosophy of environmental sustainability by salvaging other ranchers’ buffalo leather – which is more durable and 40 percent stronger than cowhide – that might otherwise end up in a landfill.

Every inch of Buffalo Collection’s heirloom furniture – from the leather foundation to the mesquite and maple finishings – is handmade in the United States. Everything in their collection of sofas, chairs, tables and more is made-to-order and can be customized to fit everything from a traditional ranch-style home to more contemporary dwellings. Lamps, paintings and pottery from the region’s top artists and designers – including Robert Rivera – are highlighted alongside the furniture. It’s a business born from respect and admiration for the American West.
Downtown Scottsdale is the city’s heart – an energetic mix of art galleries, one-off boutiques, acclaimed restaurants and a vibrant nightlife. Join photographer Jim David as he takes you on a tour of downtown through his artistic eyes!

01 Růže Cake House is the place to stop for a sweet treat during Scottsdale’s weekly ArtWalk (or any time)!
02 Scottsdale Center for the Performing Arts is located on the lush grounds of Civic Center Park.

03 The Scottsdale Museum of Contemporary Art offers exhibits of modern art and design.

04 There is a variety of art to admire at Mainview Gallery in the Scottsdale Arts District.

05 Dierks Bentley’s Whiskey Row rocks the Entertainment District.
06 Refuel with a bite at The Original ChopShop on Fifth Avenue.

07 Cart services like Quicksilver (here in Old Town) offer a fun way to get around.

08 Find the perfect memento of your trip in the boutiques along Fifth Avenue.

09 With its varied shops and restaurants, the Scottsdale Waterfront is a great place to stroll (or skate).
Long before the five-star resorts and world-famous golf courses, Scottsdale was just a tiny farming community carved out of the Arizona Territory. And although the orange groves and cotton fields are long gone, you can still experience an authentic slice of Scottsdale’s small-town days with a simple stroll down Main Street.

Welcome to Scottsdale’s most historic neighborhood, a stretch of former private residences, some built with little more than mud and hay bricks, which have slowly been transformed into quirky standalone restaurants serving up Scottsdale’s finest “home cooking.”

WHITE PICKET PARADISE

Let’s start at a restaurant appropriately named The House Brasserie. Led by the same creative genius behind the The Mission, Zinc Bistro and relative newcomer Fat Ox, a posh Italian chophouse, The House might be Chef Matt Carter’s most charming creation yet. Originally built by the Mowry family in 1939, this home-turned-classy gastropub boasts one of Scottsdale’s best patios – perfect for savoring the sumptuous weekend brunch served in the shade of lush trees and colorful umbrellas. And at night, you can’t beat sharing a bottle of bubbly — or a couple of craft cocktails — at the most romantic table in The House, warming beside a glowing outdoor fireplace.

ADOBE ABODE

If you’re in more of a pizza and beer mood, head due west to Craft 64, home to arguably the town’s best selection of locally crafted brews (36 at last count, including seven unique house beers). Not to mention award-winning wood-fired pizza adorned with locally grown veggies and toppings, and the Arizona-distilled spirits at the bar. Even the walls are locally sourced, formed...
DON’T MISS

The Mowry’s 1946 Christmas tree shades The House’s charming patio.
from thick adobe blocks, a traditional building technique that dates back to the area’s early Native American settlers.

OLD MEXICO IN OLD TOWN
Speaking of traditional Southwestern, next door lies the enchanting estate known as the Old Town Tortilla Factory. Bedecked with Spanish Colonial architecture and wrapped in vibrant bougainvillea vines, this nearly 80-year-old adobe home now serves up Mexican and Southwestern favorites on a winding flagstone patio shaded by century-old pecan trees. Or, grab a seat at the guesthouse-turned-indoor/outdoor bar and pick your poison from the 100-plus tequilas and mezcals.

BRUNCH ANYONE?
One block northeast, tucked inside a darling French Provençal-style cottage, Arcadia Farms Café has been a “ladies who lunch” hotspot since before that term was popularized. Starting as a carryout market and bakery back in 1990, this upscale café has grown from a single stylishly renovated house into a mini empire, including Arcadia Farms Marketplace next door, offering premium coffee and tea, plus to-go delights such as magazine-worthy “baby cakes.”

CORNWALL CALLING
A piece of Great Britain dropped in the heart of the Sonoran Desert, Cornish Pasty Co. is just a stone’s throw south of Main Street. Combining two former houses into one handsome brick-and-wood-lined pub, Cornish Pasty is the perfect place to knock back a pint. But the real stars here are the namesake stuffed turnovers, or pasties (pronounced PASS-tees), a hearty British specialty sort of like a meaty calzone. There’s the traditional kind filled with steak, potatoes, swede and onions, but don’t PASS-up the Indian-style Lamb Vindaloo or the all-American Pilgrim with roasted turkey, sweet potatoes, stuffing and cranberry sauce.

You know you’re in the Southwest when you see cilantro listed among the ingredients on the menu. This lacy green beauty is more than a defining flavor of Southwestern cuisine – it’s also one of the most polarizing herbs on the planet. In fact, recent studies have shown that we may be genetically predisposed to love it or hate it.

If you’re a card-carrying cilantrophobe, not to worry – Scottsdale offers plenty of delicious, cilantro-free cuisine. But if you L-O-V-E this pungent herb, here are a few of my recommendations for savoring cilantro’s distinctive flavor.

Chef and Co-Founder Rich Hinojosa of CRUjiente Tacos uses all of the cilantro – stems to leaves in his creations. The flavors are so layered and complex that I dare you to pick a favorite. The Mexican Chop salad has a vibrant cilantro vinaigrette, which is a brilliant offset for little squares of deep-fried cotija cheese. CRUjiente’s tacos go beyond everyday tacos. I love the Texas Wagyu with its slightly spicy cilantro mojo – the perfect complement to the sweet soy-pickled shimeji mushrooms. It’s a wow dish. I wasn’t sure how I would like the pork belly tacos, but the unexpected blend of cilantro with a house kimchi blew my socks off. I was also pleasantly surprised to find a delicious cilantro cocktail at CRUjiente Tacos. Created by co-founder Jason Morris, the Arcadia Margarita is muddled jalapeño, cucumber and cilantro. It wasn’t overly spicy, but refreshing, highlighting each component, making it a perfect accompaniment to my cilantro-centric dining experience.

Another way to showcase cilantro is in a fresh green sauce or salsa verde. This traditional sauce usually includes tomatillos, which are similar to tart tomatoes, blended with peppers, onions and cilantro, and served on savory dishes. For a great example of salsa verde, head to Roaring Fork and order the Slow-Roasted Pork Shoulder Carnitas. The house-made hot buttered flour tortillas make this dish extra special. Order the frozen margarita with a huckleberry swirl for a cool Southwestern pairing with a twist.

Perhaps best of all, cilantro is high in antioxidants and thought to reduce anxiety, protect against cardiovascular disease, help improve sleep, settle digestive upset, protect against colon cancer, reduce inflammation and fight infection. Whew! These benefits alone might be reason enough to at least try to love cilantro.
The Mission’s buzz-worthy guac is made with 12 fresh ingredients – including cilantro!
Scottsdale is the perfect base from which to fan out and explore Arizona. All points of the compass beckon and our roads are excellent, so let’s hit the highway and start by steering north.
Just north of Flagstaff is Wupatki National Monument, one of the Southwest’s lesser-known gems. Leave early and drive up I-17 in time to catch the warm morning light on the three impressive Native American structures at Wupatki. Easy strolls lead back in time, and in the spring, snow glitters on the majestic San Francisco Peaks.

Jerome is the billion-dollar copper camp that flatly refused to die, although perched precariously on the slope of Cleopatra Hill and honeycombed by miles of tunnels. Long an artist’s haven, Jerome’s historic buildings and steep streets will stretch your calves as you roam for images of past glories amidst a laid-back present-day vibe.

If you adore Americana and kitsch, you’ll love Arizona’s Route 66, rich with visuals of the Mother Road. Drive northeast through ponderosa pine country straight into Winslow to pay homage at Standing-On-A-Corner Park. Motor east to Holbrook’s iconic Wigwam Motel, then west to Twin Arrows and loop home through Flagstaff after a beer at the neon-lit Museum Club.

420 miles / 6:45 hrs. RT

Now, turn the page and let’s head south in search of history and beauty . . .

PETRIFIED FOREST

Petrified Forest is an easy National Park to navigate and is never crowded. Cruise up the Beeline Highway through Payson and over the storied Mogollon Rim, through living ponderosa forests. The park offers easy loop trails among the remains of a truly ancient forest, transformed by time and the elements into colored stone. Blue Mesa and the Crystal Forest are must-sees.

400 miles / 6:15 hrs. RT
nps.gov/pefo

THE GRAND CANYON

At 277 miles long, 18 miles wide and 1 mile deep, the Grand Canyon is overwhelming in its size and beauty. Explore the South Rim and marvel at the Canyon’s breathtaking combinations of geologic color and erosional formations. 474 miles / 7:30 hrs. RT

SEDONA

Sedona’s red-rock landscape is a stunning backdrop for Jeep tours, hiking and vortex tours. In town, enjoy award-winning resorts and spas, unique boutiques, fine dining and a renowned arts and cultural scene. 228 miles / 4:30 hrs. RT

MONUMENT VALLEY TRIBAL PARK

Part of the Diné (Navajo) Nation, Monument Valley is renowned for its sandstone buttes and formations made famous in Western movies. There is a self-guided, 17-mile loop drive, as well as guided hiking, Jeep and horseback tours. 648 miles / 10:30 hrs. RT
Southwest of Scottsdale lies a rocky outcrop of granite, decorated with some very evocative petroglyphs. A bit off the beaten track near Gila Bend, these centuries-old art designs scraped into stone at Painted Rock Park defy heat, storm and time. I love to comb the boulders, discovering new artists and feeling their spirits from their marks on stone.

200 miles/4:00 hrs. RT

Tombstone is the Town Too Tough to Die, surviving with its legacy of hard cases, priceless historic buildings and lively reenactments. I like the soft light of dawn on Allen Street, where the Earps and the Cowboys brawled and the nine-year poker game at the Birdcage Theatre drew players from around the West. The Old West is staged here still, and you can shoot the town from a stagecoach ride – only now with a camera.

375 miles/6:00 hrs. RT tombstonechamber.com

Ruby is the real thing, a lawless Western ghost town, well-preserved, just four miles from the Mexican border, yet seemingly decades back in time. Many fine buildings, in various states of decay, remain to photograph. While precious metals are no longer mined here, you can make golden images of façades, interiors, even the old schoolhouse.

375 miles/6:00 hrs. RT rubyaz.com

Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument preserves a treasure trove of Sonoran Desert plant and animal life and offers a range of trails from which to see and photograph them. Bring a pair of good walking shoes, a picnic lunch and stay ‘til sunset, when the stars sparkle over the crested saguaros.

meet the neighbors

here are suggestions for staying and playing in our neighboring communities
Scottsdale welcomes LGBTQ travelers from around the world with hospitality that’s as warm as our sun-filled skies.

Whether you’re planning a cozy weekend for two or a week-long vacation with family or friends, we’ve got you covered with plenty of options for staying, playing and relaxing.

Make your home base at one of Scottsdale’s 70 resorts and hotels, including TAG-approved gems like the Hyatt Regency Scottsdale Resort & Spa at Gainey Ranch or the all-new Andaz Scottsdale Resort & Spa. If you’d like to stay downtown, the Hotel Valley Ho, Saguaro Scottsdale and W Scottsdale are great choices that put you within walking distance of art galleries, boutiques, restaurants and nightlife.

After you check in at your resort, check out the adventures that await you in our Sonoran Desert. Saddle up for some horseback riding at MacDonald’s Ranch. Take a hike in Scottsdale’s McDowell Sonoran Preserve. Or go off-road with Green Zebra Adventures on a you-drive Tomcar tour.

You also can explore Scottsdale’s urban side with a little retail therapy at Scottsdale Fashion Square, a tour of the Scottsdale Museum of Contemporary Art or some gallery-hopping in the historic Arts District.

Hungry? Downtown’s FnB is known for its stellar Arizona wine list and farm-fresh cuisine, while AZ88 intrigues diners with rotating art displays, elevated pub grub and classic martinis. Don’t miss happy hour at Hula’s Modern Tiki for its retro vibe and boozy tropical cocktails. Wherever you dine, don’t even think about counting calories – you can dance them off later at nearby BS West.

Finally, be sure to check out the calendar of events on pages 41-46 for details on this year’s special events, including the AGRA Rodeo (Feb.), Phoenix Pride Festival (April) and Rainbows Festival (Oct.).

“Clear Skies” Alina Sharovskaya
Arizona’s Cactus League burst to life in postwar 1947, when the Valley of the Sun became a much-desired home for big-league players to tune up their swings for the regular season. Fifteen major league teams now play in Arizona’s spring showcase, and Scottsdale is home to three of them: the San Francisco Giants, Colorado Rockies and Arizona Diamondbacks. Plan ahead and you can enjoy every Cactus League team without driving the entire Valley, as they play against Scottsdale’s NL West trio.

Scottsdale Stadium, the spring training home of the San Francisco Giants, boasts a convenient downtown location, Camelback Mountain views from the lawn, and a hip, cosmopolitan vibe.

Just up the street, Salt River Fields hosts the Arizona Diamondbacks and Colorado Rockies. A relative new kid on the block, this stadium boasts spacious public areas, stunning mountain views and nary a bad seat in the house.

But one thing both ballparks have in common is creative ballpark cuisine. Sure, you’ll find the usual suspects, but check out these tasty game-day change-ups:

• At Scottsdale Stadium, try the Wok Fried Soba Noodles with Teriyaki Chicken. Heavy on the veggies and quite savory, this may balance the treat you really want: Garlic Fries, a San Francisco tradition. Wash down this (semi-) healthy repast with an icy Anchor Steam beer.

• At Salt River Fields, you can go savory with Salty’s Beach House Nachos (sea salt corn chips with melted queso, jalapeños, sour cream, and choice of grilled chicken or beef) or their Taco Bar. Get two street-style tacos – your choice of chicken, fish or steak – dressed by you with fresh chopped veggies and salsas.

• And if you’re in “go big or go home” mode, step up to the Talking Stick Dog. This outlandish creation is the Titanic of ballpark dogs, a 12” x 1.5” quality kosher dog in a stretched bun, covered in pulled pork and fresh mac ‘n’ cheese swirls. Two adults could easily fill up on it, but mere kids devour these 30 to 40 times per day in the spring (it helps to have a hollow leg!). 🍔
MUST TRY

Try Scottsdale Stadium’s Wok Fried Soba Noodles for a healthy ballpark bite.
The purpose of life is to live it, to taste experience to the utmost, to reach out eagerly and without fear for newer and richer experience. ~ Eleanor Roosevelt
CHIC STAYS

By Katarina Kovacevic
ANDAZ SCOTTSDALE

I had high expectations for Andaz Scottsdale Resort & Spa – for its sleek midcentury design, unique partnership with nearby Cattle Track Arts Compound and, of course, the goods at its signature restaurant Weft & Warp Art Bar + Kitchen. In short, the experience totally delivered.

Being parents, my husband and I spent our 24 toddler-free hours wisely … lounging by the pool and enjoying a customized massage at the cozy-minimalist Palo Verde Spa & Apothecary being among our conquests. Dinner at Weft & Warp was a delicious journey through a menu that plaits indigenous Sonoran Desert ingredients together with on-trend culinary techniques.

The resort itself is composed of 201 bungalow-style guestrooms and suites, their white exteriors a dramatic contrast to the surrounding saguaros and desert wildflowers. Checking into “The Guest House,” you’re met with the first real taste of that midcentury charm everyone is flipping for – clean lines mixed with eye-catching geometric patterns, neutral wood tones and the perfect pops of color.

Scottsdale has many stop-you-in-your-tracks resorts, but Andaz Scottsdale is a standout for its partnership with the creative minds behind Cattle Track. Their ingenuity is present in every detail of the resort – my personal favorite being Chance Phillips’ oft-Instagrammed “World So Full” installation, a tapestry of colorful fiber balls cascading over the check-in desk.

MOUNTAIN SHADOWS

Mountain Shadows originally opened in 1959, and the current resort is a ground-up rebuild of what was once Hollywood’s desert playground. There are nods to its history – gallery walls full of old photos and its restaurant, Hearth ’61, named for the year Paradise Valley was incorporated – but Mountain Shadows is a prototype for the Scottsdale of today.

It’s classy. It’s chic. It’s sexy. Even the midcentury architecture is zhuzhed-up with floor-to-ceiling windows and bright pops of color. Walking into our garden-facing guestroom, the first thing I noticed was the dramatic in-room, all-glass shower and the second was the oversized terrace looking out onto Camelback Mountain.

We considered just posting up on the patio, but decided to head poolside for an afternoon of craft cocktails and organic cold-pressed juice because, you know, balance. (Yes, there’s an onsite juice bar!) The scene was lively but not over the top – a low-key mash-up of families, bachelorette parties and everything in between. A DJ spun indie and daytime disco in the background, accompanied by a live trumpet player, naturally.

By the time we got to dinner at Hearth ’61, we were tanned, mellowed out and completely starving. Lucky for us, Chef Charles Wiley’s menu is packed with flavor. Our plates of fresh oysters, creamy burrata with citrus-smoked beets, and pan-roasted salmon in a mustard dill sauce left the table wiped clean. We capped off the night in true Mountain Shadows style – live music in The Living Room bar with a side of Old Fashioned.

Scottsdale’s newest resorts are brimming with swanky Sonoran Desert style
At DoubleTree by Hilton, we’ve dedicated ourselves to spreading nice every day. From a warm chocolate chip cookie welcome to our genuine staff, we’re here to make your stay as nice as we possibly can. It’s not just a promise. It’s how we do things.

Come for a stay and help us prove Nice Travels.

Visitors and locals alike find the variety of wine and spirit tastings at Scottsdale resorts surprising. We have so many fun and unexpected options that it’s hard to pick a favorite. Fortunately, you can try them all, and here are some to start with.

Alto Ristorante e Bar at the Hyatt Regency Scottsdale Resort at Gainey Ranch thrills foodies and oenophiles alike with their Alto Wine Dinners. Guests will enjoy a multi-course dinner complete with wine pairings from the night’s featured vintner.

La Hacienda at Fairmont Scottsdale Princess serves up more than 240 varieties of tequila. The Tequila Goddess teaches you to sip, savor and enjoy this complex Mexican spirit. For dessert, try Café Incendio featuring Patron XO café and cream with a fire show presented tableside.

Four Seasons Resort Scottsdale at Troon North offers complimentary wine tastings every Saturday afternoon featuring lesser-known wines sure to tempt your taste buds. Afterwards, catch the sunset at Onyx Bar & Lounge, one of my favorite spots to relax and gaze over Scottsdale.

Sanctuary Camelback Mountain serves up spirits and good times Saturday at noon with Mixology 101 in jade bar. Discover the art of cocktails in this interactive class while sipping three or four fun concoctions.

Westin Kierland Scotch Library, offering more than 250 different Scotch choices, is open each evening off the lobby from 5 to 9 p.m. The Evening of Scotches, priced at $50 per person with advance reservations, is every Friday at 6 p.m. Scotch Ambassadors take you on a guided tour through the world of fine Scotch, including a tasting flight, small bites and plenty of Scottish lore. 🍀
Hotel Valley Ho and Mountain Shadows are part of the Westroc Hospitality collection.

Unforgettable Moments.

Almost everything will work again if you unplug it for a few minutes . . . including you. ~ Anne Lamott
Recently, I set out to discover what sets Scottsdale spas apart from other dens of Zen around the world, and three unique characteristics rose to the surface.

Scottsdale’s Sonoran Desert has long been a place of healing and wellness, so it’s no surprise that more than 50 resort and day spas have brought their healing touch here.

SONORAN DESERT BOTANICALS
At Well & Being Spa at the Fairmont Scottsdale Princess, I immersed myself in a desert oasis with the Havasupai Falls Rejuvenation. It brought the desert up close, on a day when rains softly fell outside, washing me with the smell of desert chaparral inside and out. My treatment began with a purifying scrub of desert salts and a warm bath. Next came a massage with jojoba body butter, extracted from the native Southwest plant rich in vitamin E. I finished my day with a Desert Seasons Pedicure using the summer’s chaparral herbal treatment. Depending on the season, you also can enjoy aloe vera, prickly pear or juniper berry.

One of the rarest of all the desert botanicals is the “Queen of the Night,” a night-blooming desert flower that only opens under a full moon once each year. Just before Joya Spa at Omni Scottsdale Resort & Spa at Montelucia opened, the spa’s alchemist found one blooming on site. On a recent visit, I treated myself to the spa’s signature fragrance, Joyambrosia, which carries the plant’s essence.

NATIVE AMERICAN INFLUENCES
The Spa at Talking Stick Resort on the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community is situated on the resort’s 14th floor, offering unparalleled mountain and Valley views. I found myself at peace, experiencing indigenous ingredients that have been held sacred by Native Americans for centuries. The River Walk massage makes use of warm stones from Arizona's Salt River while the Desert Lavender uses tufts of local Pima cotton, desert lavender and my favorite wild chaparral oil that brings me back to the desert after a rainstorm.
Burning sage clears out negative energy and replenishes positive, healing energy.

I always connect with the beautiful Sonoran Desert surroundings when I book a spa day at the Boulders Resort. This scenic spa draws on Native American traditions for several of its treatments, including the Turquoise Clay Wrap and the Journey of the Sacred Circle, a four-part series of healing treatments based on the directions of the medicine wheel.

INVITING INDOOR/OUTDOOR SPACES

It is only fitting that many Scottsdale spas take advantage of our great weather with stunning indoor/outdoor treatment spaces. At the new Andaz Scottsdale Resort & Spa, I booked a massage at Palo Verde Spa & Apothecary and discovered treatment rooms opening onto a magnificent spa pool. And to close the circle on our trio of unique spa attributes, I created my own concoction of oils (used later during my treatment) at Palo Verde's Desert Blending Bar, which features ingredients from across the desert Southwest like sage, jojoba, prickly pear, pine and chaparral. 🌵

GOLF

TPC SCOTTSDALE
Golf is deceptively simple and endlessly complicated; it satisfies the soul and frustrates the intellect. It is at the same time rewarding and maddening – and it is without a doubt the greatest game mankind has ever invented. ~ Arnold Palmer
Golf course architects have a tough job. Build too many short holes and better players ignore your effort. Create too many tough holes, and the average golfer will avoid the course. Finding just the right mix of both — essentially blending the beauties with the beasts — is a skill possessed by only a few. Luckily, golfers coming to Scottsdale can see examples of both on multiple courses. Here are some holes that I look forward to playing and others I will hopefully conquer someday!

THE BEAUTIES

#11, Talon Course, Grayhawk Golf Club:
The tee area, complete with a swinging bridge leading to the back portion, is pretty cool. But it’s a box canyon that stretches from there to the front of the green that provides the challenge. And there’s a two-tiered green bordered by some deep bunkers.

#8, Pinnacle Course, Troon North Golf Club:
Called “McDowell Vista,” this uphill hole is fronted by a substantial bunker and framed by boulders on the left and a tall saguaro on the front right.

#9, Quintero Golf Club:
If you are afraid of heights, skip this par-3. The drop from the 212-yard back tee to the green, which is fronted by a pond, is approximately 90 feet. Just landing your tee shot on this green is worth celebrating.

#8, Raptor Course, Grayhawk Golf Club:
They call this hole “Aces and 8s.” It’s either feast — hence the ace — or famine, which could mean an infamous Snowman on your scorecard. A large, sloping mound on the left side of the green can both help and hurt your tee shot, depending on the day’s hole location.
THE BEASTS

#18, SunRidge Canyon Golf Club: This finale to a six-hole stretch known as the “Wicked Six” is a dogleg left par-4 that plays uphill all the way. Reaching the elevated green often requires more club than you might think.

#14, Stadium Course, TPC Scottsdale: It doesn’t have the risk/reward flavor of either the 15th or 17th here, but this dogleg left, uphill par-4 is a beast, especially after it was renovated in 2014 by Tom Weiskopf.

#9 Acacia Course, The Westin Kierland Golf Club: An elevated tee gives you a great view of this 531-yard par-5, with The Westin Kierland Resort & Spa providing a backdrop. Tee shots usually funnel into the fairway thanks to steep mounding on both sides, but water up the left and a heavily bunkered green provide a stern test.

#14, Saguaro Course, We-Ko-Pa Golf Club: A split fairway on this 538-yard par-5 forces a decision, but locals advise playing left for a more spacious fairway and a better look at the rest of the hole. The small, narrow green is no picnic, either.

THE CADDIE IS YOUR FRIEND: First-time players can be nervous, and not everyone is used to playing with a caddie. But we’re there to keep your sanity intact and help you have a good time. We know every inch of the course – just be patient, play smart golf and we’ll get you around in one piece.

GO AHEAD, ASK ME ABOUT THE 16TH HOLE: I start getting these questions before groups even hit their first shot. It’s cool. We like telling stories about it. The stadium seating around that hole starts getting built in October, so you can see it from almost every inch of the property. People get fired up just talking about it.

THE 16TH HOLE: It’s shorter in person and not the hardest par-3 out there, either (that’s the seventh hole). But when the stands are up for the tournament, the wind is much harder to judge. We like to have a lot of fun here, which usually means we try to rile people up. Some like to hear noise, so we’ll boo if it’s a bad shot or cheer if it’s a good shot. And yes, we’re happy to take pictures of you and your group here.

FINAL STRETCH: I tell golfers the last five holes are what you came to see. Each is pure risk/reward. Play conservatively and smart, and you will probably get through those holes at even par. Or test yourself and do what the pros try to do by going for some heroic shots. You may only play here once, so why not try it?

PUTTING TIPS: The course is overseeded with Rye grass, and that tends to follow the sun as it grows. Usually it heads southwest, right towards the center of Phoenix, or basically toward the blue spire on nearby Frank Lloyd Wright Boulevard. That’s where most putts will break toward, so be aware of where you are (we’ll help with that, too).

SCOTTSDALE’S SONORAN DESERT
Study nature, love nature, stay close to nature. It will never fail you. ~ Frank Lloyd Wright
FIVE LOVELY SURPRISES ON Scottsdale Trails

When the McDowell Sonoran Preserve was established in 1995, the intent was to protect a beautiful swath of desert and enhance the quality of life for Scottsdale residents and visitors alike. Mission accomplished. Within the 30,580 acres sheltered by the preserve, you’ll find incredible scenery, a network of trails and more than a few surprises.

BY ROGER NAYLOR
PHOTOS BY AN PHAM
Number One
BALANCED ROCK
Balanced Rock, located near Granite Mountain, always comforts me. It has absolutely no business being upright, yet there it stands, a multi-ton, mushroom-shaped boulder, precariously perched on a foundation of bare stone. Completely exposed and alone in the desert, it serves as a reminder that seemingly impossible things exist. They’re all around if we just seek them out.

Number Two
CATHEDRAL ROCK METATES
Making the loop through the desert scrub surrounding Cholla Mountain, I stop to enjoy the ancient air-conditioning of Cathedral Rock. Just off the western flank of the mountain, mighty boulders are stacked together in a distinctive formation and pocked with shady grottoes. In the largest room, metates are still visible, the shallow indentations in the bedrock where Native Americans would grind food such as mesquite pods.

Number Three
The saguaro is the unquestioned king of the Sonoran Desert, towering over the landscape. Yet despite their royal status, few wear a crown. Those that do are called crested saguaros.

When the growing tip of a saguaro produces a fan-like shape instead of columnar arms, it’s referred to as crested or cristate. Biologists aren’t sure what causes the abnormal growth. The specimen standing at the junction of the Coyote Canyon and Desperado trails is one of the most rare. The main trunk forks, with both ends fanning out into a regal double crest. It’s beautiful and eerily reminiscent of Princess Leia’s twin-bun hairdo.

Number Four
FACES OF COYOTE CANYON
The boulders give shape to narrow Coyote Canyon and also provide it with personality. This is a canyon full of whimsy. It’s only a sliver of a defile but erosional forces have added flavor, carving a variety of shapes and faces into the rough skin of the granite. I notice eyes peering at me, and world-weary grins. This, I decide, is where the Easter Island heads go to retire.

Number Five
TALIESIN OVERLOOK
It’s easy to lose yourself on Lost Dog Wash Trail. It slips immediately into the embrace of mountains, leaving all trace of the city behind. Ramble through desert flora, crossing washes and making a gentle climb. Just as you forget there’s even a city nearby, you crest a ridge with signed overlook. From this short path you savor views of not just the sprawling urban valley, but also Frank Lloyd Wright’s Taliesin West, the famed architect’s winter home and architectural school.

As if the location of our desert dinner with Cloth & Flame wasn’t magical enough – tucked away from city lights amongst the saguaros and a dramatic Arizona sunset – the night literally ended with a display of shooting stars.

It was an apt finale for an evening straight out of an Instagram story. Set in a secluded patch of colorful Sonoran Desert about 20 minutes outside of town, the four-course community dinner is downright Pinterest-worthy – a long, wooden farmhouse table (set for 104 people on this night) decked with local greenery and overhanging twinkly lights to boot.

Our chef-prepared meal followed the sangria welcome cocktails – Bosc pear and blue cheese with candied Brussels sprouts, duck confit in a citrus reduction, and roulade of slow-roasted Mangalitsa pork belly with herbs and seasonal root vegetables. It was a tableful of would-be strangers in some cases, but the wine and the conversation flowed.

Created by Matt Cooley and Olivia Laux, who also own Float Balloon Tours, Cloth & Flame’s dinners highlight local culinary talent and the Sonoran Desert’s bounty. With events held around the Valley of the Sun – and even in Sedona and Flagstaff – menus have highlighted the works of top local chefs like Aaron Chamberlin (St. Francis) and Brent Kille (Okra).

The gatherings are not only stunning, but meaningful, too. Sustainably hosted in natural preserves and state parks, they draw attention to the West’s wild beauty, plus 10 percent of every event’s proceeds is donated to organizations that work to preserve land and migratory routes across the Grand Canyon State. It’s dinner with a view . . . and a cause.

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE
East of Scottsdale rises the expansive Rio Salado, or Salt River, watershed, which collects snowmelt from the White Mountains. That pure water is saved in reservoirs we call the Chain of Lakes: Roosevelt, Apache, Canyon and Saguaro. In addition to collecting water for our desert oasis civilization, these lakes and their tributaries provide plenty of recreational opportunities. Let’s dip a toe into Scottsdale’s wet-and-wild water adventures.

The Lower Salt River flows from Saguaro Lake and meanders below banks studded with majestic saguaros and abundant wildlife. Its calm waters are perfect for paddling small rafts, kayaks and SUP boards. But it’s really prime for parking your bum in an inner tube and floating down the river for hours – a Valley of the Sun tradition. In summer, the water is cool, not cold – the perfect refresher for those 100+-degree days. A host of tubes roped together creates a rollicking party raft for friends, families and any new acquaintances you make along the way.

Upstream lie Canyon, Apache and Roosevelt lakes, reached by driving the dusty but lovely Apache Trail. The Trail is safe for cars, and while the lakes can be busy, you can usually find a quiet cove or beach to chill and enjoy that picnic lunch you brought. In contrast to the tubing parties of the Salt River, the upper lakes are relaxing and great for all paddle craft, plus water skiing and fishing.

No matter which waterhole you choose, you’ll have savored the secret of surviving in the Sonoran Desert, by chillin’ your skin in last winter’s melted snow. Yes, snowmelt in the desert sounds crazy, but I swear, once you have experienced it, you’ll be back for another round of our desert water. 🌞
Growing up on the Pacific Coast, I read every Zane Grey Western I could find, and one of my favorites was Wild Horse Mesa. Little did I know that one day, as I paddled a raft down the Salt River, I’d come face to face with elusive wild horses just like the ones Grey wrote about. My fellow paddlers and I were surprised by the herd of free-spirited steeds crossing the river before us in a cavalcade of sound and spray. Intrigued, I had to learn more.

About 100 mustangs (wild horses) have made their home in the brush and grasses lining the Lower Salt and Verde rivers. These unbranded, wild and free-roaming horses are believed descended from Iberian horses brought here by Spanish explorers in the 1500s.

Today, some consider the horses nuisances and traffic hazards. But these wild beauties have passionate defenders – not cowboys as in that epic Zane Grey novel, but local folks who fight for them in court. The mustangs even have a Facebook page (search for Salt River Wild Horses).

I didn’t know all that history when I first saw the wary, slightly skittish horses. But I was mesmerized by their grace and have returned to the river again and again to seek the wild horses of the Tonto . . . for myself and for Zane.
If you’re looking for insider tips and awe-inspiring photos that will fuel your adventures, here are six local explorers you’ll want to follow.

FABULOUSLY FREE

Who doesn’t love free? Here are 7 fun and free (or nearly free) things to do in and around Scottsdale.

Number One
STROLL THE GARDEN
If you’d like to see some unusual Sonoran Desert plants but don’t want to risk getting too much nature on you, head for the Desert Botanical Garden. You can stroll the Garden’s five thematic (and nicely paved) paths for free on the second Tuesday of the month. Trails include the Desert Discovery and Desert Wildflower loops. dbg.org

DISCOVER RARE GEMSTONES
High in Arizona’s Mazatzal Mountains lies one of only two mines in the world that produces Siberian Red amethyst. See this rare gemstone for yourself at Scottsdale’s Four Peaks Mining Co. Store where young rock hounds can explore an interactive mine, touch veins of amethyst ore and see minerals that fluoresce under UV light. fourpeaksminingco.com

A VISUAL FEAST
You might not associate Scottsdale with modern art, but the Scottsdale Museum of Contemporary Art is a sleek space featuring colorful, unique and mind-bending exhibits that tickle the fancy of even the most art-phobic people. Admission is free on Thursdays and after 5 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. Kids 15 and younger are always free. smo.ca.org

Number Four
LEARN TO BOOTSCOOT
A Scottsdale favorite since the 1960s, Handlebar J’s is a classic Country-Western saloon known for its fall-off-the-bone ribs and live music. Best of all, they offer free step and swing dancing lessons, so even if you’re a tenderfoot, there’s no reason not to join in the fun. handlebarj.com
Number Five
PURPLE MOUNTAIN MAJESTY
Scottsdale’s McDowell Sonoran Preserve is a 30,580-acre sanctuary that permanently protects the city’s namesake mountains. Open daily from sunrise to sunset, it’s the perfect place to slow down and explore Scottsdale’s pristine desert environs on 182-miles of shared-use trails. mcdowellsonoran.org

Number Six
TICKET TO RIDE
Being able to hail a ride on your phone is truly a miracle of modern technology, but you still can’t beat free. The City of Scottsdale’s free Downtown Trolley runs every 10 minutes, seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. scottsdaleaz.gov/trolley

Number Seven
JUST ADD WATER
Ever wonder how we water this thriving desert metropolis? Take a walk along the historic Arizona Canal through downtown Scottsdale, soak in public artworks like the Soleri Bridge, and then realize you are walking in the footsteps of Native American settlers, who first irrigated this river valley thousands of years ago, and whose ruins served as the blueprints for Scottsdale’s first canals. scottsdalepublicart.org

CHEAP EATS
These dining options might be easy on your wallet, but they’re loaded with fun, flavor and innovation.

BURGER BATTLE
Help settle a raging bicoastal debate about whose burger’s better: California’s iconic In-n-Out Burger or the NYC upstart, Shake Shack, both of which have locations in Scottsdale. in-n-out.com, shakeshack.com

BOTTLE & BOARD
At Postino Wine Café don’t miss the daily $5 Before 5 p.m. deals on wines by the glass or pitchers of craft beer, or the $20 Bottle & Bruschetta Board deal every Monday. postinowinecafe.com

TIKI TIME
Hula’s Modern Tiki, a sleek take on the classic tiki bars of the 1950s and ’60s, offers tropical tipples and island-style apps for only $6 each, weekdays from 3:30 to 6 p.m. hulasmoderniki.com

STREET TACO HEAVEN
Follow the heavenly aroma of spicy, smoky meats to Mr. Mesquite Taqueria. This walk-up food stand serves authentic street tacos for $3 each ($2 each on Taco Tuesdays!). Find them on Facebook.
Love of beauty is taste. The creation of beauty is art.

In Scottsdale sits the stunning Frank Lloyd Wright legacy of Taliesin West. Wright, recognized as one of the world’s greatest architects, established the property in 1937 as a winter home and base for his apprenticeship program. With the aid of this Taliesin Fellowship, it grew into a sprawling compound showcasing Wright’s innovative philosophy of “organic architecture,” a melding of habitat and nature. Situated in a Sonoran Desert preserve of 491 acres, it is now home to the Frank Lloyd Wright School of Architecture as well as the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation. Taliesin West is open to the public, and offers eight different tours to explore this National Historic Landmark.

The new Garden Tour was created to answer guests’ many questions as they explore the property. The Panorama Tour features spaces including the Cabaret Theater and Wright’s office, while the Insights Tour expands on this with additional stops such as the drafting studio and the Wrights’ personal living quarters. A highlight of Behind the Scenes is an afternoon tea in the Garden Room hosted by visiting speakers who knew Wright personally. After dark, the Night Lights Tour features dramatic evening views of this special home.
roamed the grounds. More than 35 plants and trees are identified in an accompanying booklet as a guide leads groups through gardens and walkways. Many visitors start with this tour and follow up with an inside tour.

On my most recent visit, I embarked on the fascinating Private Collections Tour, which visits the archive vault, a temperature-controlled space housing Wright’s light-sensitive collections and artifacts. Limited to eight people due to spatial considerations, the tour showcases rarely seen books, photographs and artwork such as Gustav Klimt monographs, first-edition books and the china Wright designed for the majestic Imperial Hotel in Tokyo. I also learned that Wright was an avid collector of Japanese art and textiles. This includes beautiful stencils made of silk thread and Japanese mulberry paper, Japanese fabric and Noh robes, and prints by famed Japanese landscape artists Hiroshige and Hokusai (Wright had a collection of over 6,000 at the time of his death). I found Wright’s limited-edition surinomo woodblock print collection especially fascinating, as they were discovered on a storage shelf 27 years after his death.

Each time I visit Taliesin West, a different tour opens the door to a new Wright experience. I leave with a greater appreciation for this revolutionary architect and his life and accomplishments, and I am sure you will too.

The fruit of Frank Lloyd Wright’s project “How to Live in the Southwest” was a 2,500-square-foot home designed for the architect’s son David and daughter-in-law Gladys. The home sits on 6.1 acres in Phoenix’s Arcadia neighborhood, just west of Scottsdale. Completed in 1952, it features a striking spiral design coiling around a circular courtyard with perimeter floor-to-ceiling windows that embrace desert vistas such as Camelback Mountain. Inside, Wright’s aesthetic of natural materials is captured in concrete block walls and mahogany ceilings.

Used as the couple’s home until Gladys’ death in 2008, it was slated for demolition until Zach Rawling purchased the property and pledged the house to the School of Architecture at Taliesin West, contingent upon restoration donations. Their combined vision is for the home to one day become a living space and education hub for architecture students and faculty, as well as open to the public for tours.

Indulge your inner cowboy with a visit to Western Spirit: Scottsdale’s Museum of the West. In addition to its stellar permanent collections, the museum has rounded up an exciting trifecta of special exhibitions for 2018.

The Rennard Strickland Collection of Western Film History
Through Sept. 30, 2018
This inaugural exhibition features more than 100 Western film posters and lobby cards dating from the 1890s to the mid-1980s. The exhibition also pays tribute to Rennard Strickland (Osage/Cherokee), whose collection of more than 5,000 items was acquired in late 2016 in a partnership between Western Spirit: Scottsdale’s Museum of the West and the Arizona State University Foundation.

Canvas of Clay: Hopi Pottery Masterworks from The Allan and Judith Cooke Collection
Through Dec. 29, 2019
This exhibition features more than 65 of the finest examples of Hopi pottery. Spanning six centuries, the exhibition explores the history and stylistic traditions of the Hopi, who have excelled in the creation of ceramics for generations. Among the historic and contemporary masterworks are 18 ceramics by Nampeyo of Hano, the most famous of the Hopi potters.

The Art of Joe Beeler: A Western Original
Jan. 16 through Oct. 28, 2018
This retrospective exhibition pays tribute to Joe Beeler, a founding member of the Cowboy Artists of America and a chronicler of the American West. Beeler’s art depicts his own personal stories about the people, places, powwows and roundups in which he was a participant. His paintings and bronzes exemplify the artist’s vision, storytelling ability and love of life.

Western Spirit: Scottsdale’s Museum of the West / scottsdalemuseumwest.org
Enjoy Hopi pottery masterworks and rare posters starring silver screen cowboys and Indians – plus so much more – at this nationally acclaimed attraction.

Whoever said money can’t buy happiness simply didn’t know where to go shopping. ~ Bo Derek Whether you stop by Scottsdale Fashion Square, which offers some of the world’s top luxury brands, or head to north Scottsdale for uniquely Arizona shopping experiences, you can find just about anything in the desert Southwest. Harden, who has been with the mall for more than two decades, knows all the insider secrets. The impeccably dressed, always smiling ambassador genuinely wants to help visitors by providing a personal touch that’s missing from large malls across the U.S. Whether you need an engagement ring, a cocktail dress or the perfect keepsake of your Scottsdale trip, Harden is there to help.

SCOTTSDALE FASHION SQUARE

By Susan Lanier-Graham

Scottsdale is one of the most distinctive locations in the Southwest for indulgent shopping experiences.

LAND OF LUXURY WITH A PERSONAL TOUCH

Downtown’s Scottsdale Fashion Square evolved from its open-air beginnings in 1961 to a premier indoor luxury shopping destination today. The center counts leading fashion brands such as Louis Vuitton, Escada, Kate Spade, and Cartier among its 200-plus offerings.

Not sure where to begin on your shopping excursion? Never fear — you can ask Roving Concierge Peter Harden for help.
SHOPPING

There will be even more opportunity for indulgence at Scottsdale Fashion Square in 2018, when the center debuts a new luxury shopping wing anchored by Neiman Marcus and Dillard’s. Fashionistas can look forward to:

• Fresh renovations and upgrades at long-standing favorite like Louis Vuitton, Jimmy Choo, Omega, Gucci and Montblanc.

THE BEVERLY HILLS OF THE DESERT

Scottsdale Quarter is fondly called the Beverly Hills of the desert for its upscale shopping, dining and entertainment. The open-air center is the only place in Arizona where you can shop two retailers made famous online — Warby Parker for custom eyeglasses and Bonobos for picked-to-fit men’s clothing. Design your own jewelry at Kendra Scott, indulge in timeless fashion at JOIE, and find a diamond designed by artisans at Spence Diamonds. You’ll be glittering when you get ready at DryBar for a night on the town.

And you don’t have to go far. At iPic Theater, plush seating meets state-of-the-art technology, served with cocktails, of course. Afterwards, stop by Creamistry for science wizardry blended up with dessert delights or pick up French treats at Le Macaron.

SHOPPING GOES UPSCALE

In North Scottsdale, Kierland Commons offers an upscale outdoor lifestyle center built around a commons area — where you might find fitness classes in spring or fall or a concert on a summer evening.

Whether you want to stop by the artisan-inspired collection at Sundance, founded by Robert Redford; check out ultimate performance apparel at Athleta; or get personalized spa services and indulge in luxurious beauty products at Bluemercury, Kierland Commons offers unique shopping experiences. Take time to visit the new local art gallery, Desert Mountain Fine Art, showcasing both local and international artists. Finally, finish with a glass of wine and bruschetta at locally owned Postino WineCafe.

More Luxe to Come!

There will be even more opportunity for indulgence at Scottsdale Fashion Square in 2018, when the center debuts a new luxury shopping wing anchored by Neiman Marcus and Dillard’s. Fashionistas can look forward to:

• An Escada flagship store, the only one of its kind this side of Düsseldorf.

• New upscale retailers and restaurants, including Ocean 44.

• A two-story, luxury entrance with a grand promenade featuring a dedicated valet, lush gardens and a signature water feature.

THE HOUSE BRASSERIE
All four elements were happening in equal measure - the cuisine, the wine, the service, and the overall ambience. It taught me that dining could happen at a spiritual level. ~ Charlie Trotter
Over the past few years, the famously male-dominated restaurant industry has seen a welcome influx of talented female chefs. And Scottsdale is helping to lead the way thanks to the following collection of award-winning fine dining kitchen goddesses.
SCOTTSDALE’S SWEETER SIDE

Alongside their savory counterparts, these “sweet” female chefs are shaping Scottsdale’s food scene.

The Icon
Way back in 1993, Chef Chrysa Robertson launched Rancho Pinot with a concept that would seem very trendy today: simple yet gourmet Italian fare made with seasonal, locally sourced ingredients (some grown in her own backyard), paired with boutique wines and served in a classy-casual environment. Decades later, Rancho Pinot is still a beloved local institution, and chef Robertson, who also founded the local Slow Food chapter and helped bring the farm-to-table concept to Scottsdale, has been celebrated far and wide as the “godmother of modern Arizona cuisine.”

The Innovator

If Rancho Pinot ignited a slow burn, then Charleen Badman, a former protégé of Chef Robertson, hit the Scottsdale scene like a proverbial stick of dynamite. First opening in 2009, FnB helped redefine what you can do with the Sonoran Desert’s surprising bounty, and earned Chef Badman the nickname “the veggie whisperer.” But fear not carnivores, she’s also pretty skilled with her carving knife, serving up flopping-fresh fish and responsibly sourced game.

The Maestro

Rochelle Daniel, executive chef of Scottsdale’s Fat Ox, ran one of the most prestigious resort restaurants in Sedona before being lured back to the area where her career began to oversee this new Italian-style stunner alongside Chef Matt Carter.

Named after the famed cattle and wine festival in Piedmont, Italy, Fat Ox specializes in house-rolled pastas paired with plate-buckling cuts of steak. Be sure to save room for the signature Caesar salad, prepared to order on a retro tabletop cart.

The Newcomer

Although Mexico-born Chef Samantha Sanz has been with the posh Four Seasons Resort at Troon Scottsdale North for several years, it was only recently that she’s stepped into the spotlight. Now leading the signature dining room, Talavera at Four Seasons, Chef Sanz has won rave reviews for sprinkling bold, authentic Mexican and Southwestern influences into Talavera’s hearty, steak-centric menu.

HAVE DESSERTS, WILL TRAVEL
Even if you’ve never visited Chef Tracy Dempsey’s bakeshop in neighboring Tempe (Tracy Dempsey Originals), you’ve probably savored one of her signature spicy-sweet desserts, such as Bacon Pecan Brittle. After starting as the dessert chef for the longtime local favorite Cowboy Ciao, she’s branched out to deliver dessert to top local restaurants and markets around the Valley. tracydempseyoriginals.com

COUNTRY COOKING
What is it about Cowboy Ciao and its pastry chefs? Like Dempsey before her, Country Velador started as the dessert chef for this Scottsdale favorite. Now she’s started her own sandwich and bakeshop, Super Chunk Sweets & Treats. Don’t miss her signature Mesquite Chocolate Chip, made with local mesquite flour and named the “Best Chocolate Chip Cookie Worth Traveling For” by National Geographic magazine. superchunk.me

NICE ICE
As any ice cream fanatic can tell you, there’s a big difference between the mass-produced grocery-store version and fresh-churned, small-batch ice cream. Led by Chef Helen Yung, Sweet Republic artisan ice cream is certainly the latter, with flavors like Sichuan Chocolate, Berry Cobbler and Sweet Corn, and ingredients such as slow-roasted bananas, freshly baked brownies and handmade marshmallows. sweetrepublic.com

Surrounded by Sonoran Desert parks and trails, Scottsdale is a city of outdoor enthusiasts, and brunch is the perfect opportunity to reward a morning hike or cap off the weekend’s festivities. While we’re blessed with traditional spots offering puffy omelets and fluffy pancakes, here are five of my favorites that kick brunch up a notch.

THE HOUSE BRASSERIE

Take a seat on this charming bungalow’s terrace to savor sweet corn crepes with citrus crema and berry syrup, or duck chilaquiles with tangy salsa verde. Don’t forget bottomless mimosas and Bellinis, half-price bottles of wine, and libations such as the Coffee is For Closers with Press Cold Brew, Tia Maria liqueur and demerara syrup.

ZUZU

ZuZu at the Hotel Valley Ho embraces its midcentury modern architecture, a lovely setting for creamy coconut chia seed pudding with fresh berries and Marcona almonds, or biscuits and gravy gilded with smoked fried chicken and a sunny-side-up egg. Another must-order is a ZuZu Show Stopper Shake, like the towering Strawberry Shortcake, decadently embellished with angel food cake, chocolate-covered strawberries and an ice cream bar.

SONATA’S

Sonata’s European flair showcases the owners’ Lithuanian heritage. Delicious dishes include pastrami hash with romesco topped with a fried egg; the Croque Madame, layering ham and Gruyère cheese on sourdough draped with béchamel; and sweet or savory crepes such as roasted duck with mushrooms and havarti cheese, or Paul’s Crepes folded around chocolate hazelnut and bananas. Sip on cocktails such as The Thyme is Now, a refreshing union of Lithuanian vodka, apricot and thyme-infused honey.

SUMOMAYA

A bright and festive patio sets the tone for the Mexican-Asian menu. The $29 Bottomless Brunch includes your choice of entrée plus limitless appetizers, sides and desserts. I suggest starting with plantain chips and black bean hummus or tres leches oatmeal brulée before deciding on al pastor pad thai or beef tenderloin Benedict with crab hollandaise. Enjoy it all while taking advantage of bottomless margaritas.

HASH KITCHEN

This local favorite offers Italian-inspired dishes, Southwestern favorites, mimosa samplers and a Bloody Mary bar with 40 different garnishes. Dine on cannoli pancakes stacked with sweet ricotta, prosciutto eggs Benedict on ciabatta, or Cristina’s Corn Tamales topped with green chili pork, poached eggs and spicy hollandaise. Celebrate your inner child with a Cereal Cocktail like the Cocoa Puffs made with Kahlua, chocolate vodka, and milk.

Whether you’re refueling after an adventure or meeting friends to while away a leisurely afternoon, you’ll be sure to enjoy these Scottsdale brunch-worthy gems.

SCOTTSDALE SCOPS

There are few tastier ways to stay cool in Scottsdale than eating ice cream. Fortunately, there are several excellent local proprietors of the dessert we all scream for, no matter what the outside temperature. Here’s the scoop on five of my favorites.

SUGAR BOWL
Opened in 1958, and still owned by the same family, this Scottsdale mainstay retains an old-school, ice cream parlor vibe (and a distinctive pink exterior). Menu favorites include the Camelback Soda and Pinnacle Peak sundaes, but I usually gulp down a delicious shake or malt far too quickly. Hello brain freeze!

BAKED BEAR
Be the architect of your own ice cream sandwich here. The four-step process involves picking your top and bottom items (cookies, brownies or even a donut!), an ice cream flavor, the toppings and deciding to heat, or not, the entire thing.

SWEET REPUBLIC
Can ice cream be considered gourmet? Absolutely! Sweet Republic opened in 2008 and made ice cream an art form, with a distinctive flavor menu that changes regularly. Salted butter caramel is a favorite choice, as are Sweet Corn, Brown Butter Pecan and Honey Lavender. I haven’t tried them yet because my default choice is the Toffee Banoffee sundae, with Madagascar vanilla ice cream, bananas, salted caramel sauce and house-made almond toffee brittle.

FATTY DADDY’S
This relative newcomer to the local ice cream landscape is small in size but huge in flavors (24 in total) that are kept as natural and organic as possible. I find it hard to pass up the Cookie Cup, made with layers of ice cream that are topped with a fresh macaron and a toasted marshmallow. Individual flavors that top my list include Cinnamon Toast Crunch and Whisky Irish Cream.

SUPER CHUNK
Ice cream is a recent, and very welcome, addition to this shop that’s already well known for small-batch, handcrafted sweets and treats. There are 12 different (and ever-changing) flavors, all made from scratch, including Cake Scrap – created with delicious parts from the shop’s cake products.

You can't change everything in one night. But one night can change everything. ~ unknown
The first necessity as an Arizona musician is the ability to showcase the Southwest’s style — a mix of Americana, old-school country, outlaw rock, folk and a touch of Spanish influence. An understanding of the diverse audience is a close second. Scottsdale is a melting pot, and has been home to artists like Alice Cooper and Stevie Nicks. “Arizona’s traditional sounds are blended very well in their own niche. Musicians here love to collaborate with different genres and ages,” explains Scottsdale musician Jeordie Schekeryk.

Known for her blend of bluesy Americana and folk rock, soulful vocals and ever-present acoustic guitar and harmonica, Jeordie graces the stage at local and statewide lounges and restaurants close to five nights a week. Not surprising, considering she was raised around Woodstock legends and had a hit in Canada by the time she was 5 (with her sister, now a Nashville songwriter). Her brother is a classically trained guitarist who has worked with stars like Miley Cyrus, and her mother, Melanie, is the Woodstock legend of such hits as “Brand New Key” and “Beautiful People.”

After relocating to Scottsdale in 2000, Jeordie felt a strong connection to the Southwest music scene. She began to build her brand, performing in everything from a duo and her band Jeordie and the Mixology Project to Alice Cooper’s Christmas Pudding charity event.

Jeordie’s goal is to help Scottsdale musicians build on their strengths and expand local involvement. Fans can expect a short album in 2018 and a possible open-mic night founded by Jeordie. “The open-mic scene is growing rapidly here,” she says. “Bring your guitar to Arizona, because you might end up jamming!”

“Ours bands offer a lot of cover music, which locals and visitors love, but by the same token, there’s a lot of original music, too. Clubs, bars and restaurants aren’t just looking for cover bands and Top 40 hits.”

Where should you go to check out the local music scene? Here are some of Jeordie’s favorite local events and venues — there’s something for every musical taste!

Today, going out for cocktails is as much about the ambiance and service as it is about the ingredients in the glass. These local hotspots hit the mark on all counts, so join us and let’s say “cheers” with Scottsdale’s best cocktails in hand.

Barrio Cantaritos, Barrio Queen
Barrio Queen offers an authentic margarita with their tableside Barrio Cantaritos. The Don Camilo reposado tequila, salt, fresh citrus and Mexican Squirt make this drink a citrus-forward paloma-margarita-hybrid. barrioqueen.com

Espresso Martini, Zinc Bistro
The combination of Stoli Vanilla, Bailey’s, Frangelico, Tuaca, Kahlua and a Double Shot of illy Espresso makes for a subtly sweet, stimulating and classic Parisian-inspired experience. zincbistro.com

Anarchist Elixir, citizen public house
Monkey Shoulder Scotch is balanced by the herbal essence of Nardini Amaro and Leopold Bros. Three Pins Alpine Herbal Liqueur. Simple syrup and an orange peel garnish finish it off, making each taste bright. citizenpublichouse.com

Aguacate, The Mission
The aguacate’s combo of El Charro tequila, avocado, Smokehouse Vida mezcal, triple sec, pressed lime, agave nectar and ghost pepper purée create a smooth, blended texture and a unique drinking experience. themissionaz.com

Snow Cone Margarita, Diego Pops
The cheerful Watermelon Lime Snow Cone margarita, made with Don Julio Blanco, watermelon liqueur, triple sec, muddled watermelon and housemade sweet and sour, is a sweet treat that’s sure to cool you down. diegopops.com

The Vesper, AZ88
The poured-to-the-brim Vesper at AZ88, with its Bulldog gin, Chopin vodka, Lillet Blanc and a lemon twist garnish, is as sleek as the rotating art installations on the walls. az88.com
scottsdale’s

coffee culture

These local Scottsdale shops are the perfect place to hang out and listen to live tunes, cure a hangover headache, or simply enjoy a delicious cup of caffeine.

BERDENA’S
Bright and airy, Berdena’s shines with a straightforward coffee bar menu, local Le Dinosaur baked goods, Bellocq Tea Atelier, quality retail items and house specialties like the yeast-raised waffles.

Roasted by: Ritual Coffee from San Francisco
My order: The Seasonal Cold Brew Special, made with a different bean every day (and if you’re lucky, it may contain organic Maraschino cherry syrup and tonic).

berdenas.com

SIP COFFEE & BEER HOUSE
Sip is trendier than your living room, but just as cozy. With its almost-daily live music, all-day breakfast, and an impressive lunch menu, Sip is the place to hang out from morning til happy hour. It is, after all, a beer house too.

Roasted by: Brazilian origin but double-roasted by Cartel. My order: The Kevlar (a.k.a. the sustainable caffeine high), which uses the good fat from local, organic butter and MCT oil to give the body energy to meet the stimulant of the coffee.

CARTEL COFFEE LAB
The AZ coffee culture cultivators at Cartel Coffee Lab are the state’s most popular roasters. Offering four Valley locations, including one on Scottsdale’s famous Fifth Avenue, Cartel Coffee Lab also is known for its industrial ambiance and Arizona beer and wine list (a light at the end of the tunnel after a long day).

Roasted by: Themselves! They typically have beans from Central America and Africa via special trade contracts. My order: I go with the Cartel Barista Specialty Drink Challenge Winner. This time around, it was the PB&J Affogato by 5th Avenue Barista James Reilly. How have I never known PB&J and coffee go together so well?

REGROUP COFFEE + BICYCLES
A cyclist’s and coffee lover’s dream, Regroup is a full-service bicycle shop and the place to stop after a ride for a Slayer Shake. It’s also perfect if you’re just into coffee, easygoing vibes and interesting people.

Roasted by: Presta Coffee Roasters, our Tucson neighbors. My order: A vanilla latte, because, like the barista said, “It’s cool to have flavors.”
regroupwithus.com

FOURTILLFOUR
A simple and classic coffee menu, Porsches (yes, the car), a super-clean retail shop and locally made Noble Bread with butter and cinnamon? Yes please. The air at Fourtillfour is filled with laidback hip-hop tunes and there are plenty of cool books to peruse. For later in the day, beer, wine and (soon) a more extended menu add up to frequent Fourtillfour trips.

Roasted by: Four Barrel Coffee from San Francisco My order: A cappuccino, for there.

Wherever you go, go with all your heart.  ~ Confucius
There's a delicious trend underway at Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport. To offer travelers a better sense of our city’s character, national chains have been replaced by local outposts with made-from-scratch menus. Travel site RewardExpert named Sky Harbor number two in the country for airport food, and in Terminal 4 you'll find more than 20 local options. Here are six suggestions and some of my favorite dishes.

Start your day off right at Matt’s Big Breakfast, where the orange juice is freshly squeezed and the sausage and bacon are sourced from local butchers. Order the namesake Biggest Breakfast with eggs, bacon, sausage and a fluffy griddle cake, and wash it down with a generously garnished Bloody Mary.

At Chelsea’s Kitchen, sip on a prickly pear margarita made with tequila infused with locally harvested cactus fruit before grazing on a perfect rendition of deviled eggs. I also love the light and fresh Del Mar salad, brimming with sweet crabmeat.

Savor Mexican cuisine at Barrio Café as you enjoy a Bomba margarita with pineapple juice and grenadine. Signature dishes include cochinita pibil (achiote-spiced pork slow-roasted in banana leaves) and chile en nogada (a picadillo-stuffed roasted poblano draped in a creamy almond sauce with pomegranate seeds).

Cowboy Ciao’s iconic Stetson Chopped Salad is an addictive combination of flavors and textures with rows of Israeli couscous, arugula, tomatoes, smoked salmon, Asiago cheese, pepitas, currants and super-sweet dried corn, all tossed tableside with a creamy pesto dressing.

At French bistro Zinc Brasserie, pour a glass of chilled rosé to accompany moules marinière, plump mussels crowned by a crispy thatch of matchstick potatoes, or braised pork belly complemented by fig mostarda, frisée and green apple.

You can order Sweet Republic’s award-winning ice cream in cones and shakes, but go for the Toffee Banofi, a Food Network “Best Thing I Ever Ate” star: two scoops of Madagascar vanilla ice cream in a waffle dish covered in sliced bananas, salted caramel sauce, whipped cream and homemade almond toffee.

Whether you’re traveling through, landing hungry or flying out, take advantage of a concourse selection of our city’s finest.
MUST TRY

Zinc’s Moules Mariniere are bathed in white wine, leeks, toasted rosemary and French butter.
Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport is the main airport serving the Scottsdale area. Known as “America’s Friendliest Airport,” Sky Harbor recently received The Airport Innovation Accelerator’s “Airport Innovation Award” for its creative work to improve the passenger experience, including cutting-edge technology to facilitate efficient passenger processing and a “dress rehearsal” program for children with autism to help them prepare for their flight.

NEW INTERNATIONAL FLIGHTS FOR 2018

- Air Canada is now offering seasonal nonstop service between Phoenix and Montreal. The flight will operate three times weekly in the winter and spring.
- Nonstop flights between Phoenix and Frankfurt, Germany on Condor Airlines will run from May through September. The twice-weekly flights operate on Mondays and Fridays.
- British Airways added an additional nonstop flight between Phoenix and London that will operate three days each week – Tuesday, Friday and Sunday – from spring through fall.

NAVIGATOR BUDDIES

Having preflight jitters? Navigator Buddies are dogs in a registered pet-therapy program who, along with their owners, volunteer their time to provide some tail-wagging comfort to airport travelers.

The dogs offer ears for scratching and bellies for rubbing, while their owners provide directions and general airport information.
